6,800 VETS CELEBRATING 'THEIR DAY'

Parade, Retreat, Concert in Central Park Tonight Highlight Event.

This is "The Day" for 6,800 Mansfield and Richland county veterans of World War II.

It's the day to celebrate the first anniversary of the news that was flashed around the world just a year ago that war with Japan had ended and total victory was ours.

Veterans of World War II have planned for this evening one of the greatest celebrations ever staged in the city in the hope that it will become an annual event.

Following a colorful "victory parade" through the downtown area at 6:30 p. m. with veterans of both world wars marching side by side, the festivities will be highlighted by a solemn formal retreat ceremony at the flagpole in Central park, after which the marchers will disband and spectators will be treated to a short concert from the bandstand by the Shelby American Legion band.

Here's Line of March for Parade.

Here's the line of march for tonight's "Victory Parade" at 6:30 p. m.:

Park Avenue west from the Legion home to Mulberry street; north on Mulberry to West Fourth street; east on Fourth to North Main street; south on Main to Central park where the parade will disband following retreat conducted by Company M of the Ohio State Guard.

After the concert, open house will be held in all veterans' clubs, climaxed by a public dance in McVey Post Legion home to music furnished by a Legion orchestra directed by Jack Lewis.

City Joins Celebration.

Virtually all business activity in the city was to come to a standstill at noon today in recognition of "Victory Day" which has been officially proclaimed by President Truman and state and city officials.

Heading the "victory parade" which will form in four divisions at and near the McVey Post Legion home at 6 p. m. will be Marshals Harlus R. Crichfield, representing Pacific theater war veterans, and William M. Colby, representing European theater veterans.

Albert L. Allen and Alexander Doaga, "heroes of Bataan," will ride in the seat of honor at the head of the parade as honorary marshals, followed by other ex POWs marching in a unit on foot.

Sponsored by veterans of the past war for all veterans of World War I and II, regardless of organizational affiliation, the parade and program are expected to attract hundreds of veterans as participants, in uniform or "civvies."

All veterans have been invited

RAIN WANTED

Crops Commencing to Suffer From Lack of Moisture.

Richland county farmers watched both the thermometer and the skies today. They reported crops suffering from lack of rain and cool weather retarding the maturity of corn and vegetables.

New seedings of clover and alfalfa were hardest hit.

The weatherman gave small hope for crop relief. His forecast was for scattered showers with little change in temperature which at noon today stood at 73 at the Ohio Public Service company's Longview sub-station.

UNEMPLOYMENT DROPS

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation said today the average weekly number of civilians and veterans receiving unemployment benefits during July declined to 112,119 from a June total of 135,518. Of the July total, Administrator Charles H. Jones said 67,196 were ex-servicemen drawing the $20-per-week readjustment allowances and 44, 923 were civilians receiving state benefits.

Just a Year Ago Today, Mansfielders Listened for Victory Word On Far-Off Saipan, In War Scarred Paris, and In Jap Prisons

A year ago today Mansfielders listened for the victory news around the world.

In a remote Jap prison camp in northern Manchuria, in India's sunny climes, in a war-scarred Paris, on a B-29 base on Saipan, in a classroom on Luzon and at the navy pier at Chicago they listened, waited, prayed for the end of World War II.

Today, the city's fighting sons recall where they were and their reactions to the end of a conflict which had reached the far corners of the globe and had taken innumerable lives.

Worked In Jap Camp.

One year ago today, ex-Sgt. Albert L. Allen, jr., survivor of the Bataan Death March "went to work as usual" in a Japanese concentration camp factory in Mukden, Manchuria.

Today, the veteran of three and one-half years' Jap imprisonment is Civilian Allen, city engineering department employe and a firmly established married man. Allen and his bride, the former Miss Nancy Cox, herself a former WAVE, reside in an attractive apartment at 462 Woodward avenue.

"August 14, 1945, seems a long time ago," Allen said. "We had no idea the war had ended—not even the Japs knew it. Even with the rumors we didn't know it for certain until the 19th when the Russians moved into the camp and relieved the Japanese of their guns."

While the word of victory still hadn't reached the enemy outpost on V-J day, strong rumors had somewhat upset the routine of the concentration camp. These are the incidents Allen recalls of the day:

"About noon we thought something was up. The Japs called us from the factory and the air raid sirens went off. We thought there was an air raid nearby.

"When we got back to camp we saw that they were cooking extra food. We found out that the generals and colonels in the camp were going on a forced march to the mountains. That worried us because we thought we'd be moved out, too. It was a long distance to the mountains and the Japs were giving only a baked potato and a small piece of bread to the officers for their marching rations.

SUICIDE VERDICT IN MRS. SEMLER DEATH RETUNRED

Authorities in Statement Say Divorcee Ended Life in Cistern.

ASHLAND — City and county authorities issued a joint statement late yesterday that suicide was the cause of the death of Mrs. Kate Semler, 48, Ashland divorcee whose body was found in a cistern at the rear of her home Aug. 2.

Hand marks on the cistern wall just above the water line provided conclusive evidence that Mrs. Semler was alive when she plunged to the bottom, said the statement issued by Prosecutor C. W. Chorpening and Police Chief Harry Smith.

A verdict of suicide issued this morning by Coroner A. D. Lewis laid the death to excessive hemorrhage from self inflicted cuts.

The hand marks were discovered several days after Mrs. Semler's body was discovered by her son early the morning of Aug. 2, Prosecutor Chorpening said, but the presence of an indistinct finger print on the underside of the cistern cover led police to withhold a statement until the identity of the print could be established.

Neither local finger-print experts nor officials of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were unable to identify the indistinct print. It was the FBI report on this print that police awaited for more than a week, Chorpening added.

The joint statement, prepared by Chorpening and Chief Smith before the latter began his vacation yesterday, reads:

4,500 Rooms Still Short In City Drive

Mansfield's "Rent - a - Spare-Room" campaign for 5,000 incoming workers was still 4,500 rooms short today. Noon reports showed approximately only 500 rooms promised so far.

The campaign, formerly scheduled to last two days with 40 women visiting every Mansfield home, has been continued in the hope that more householders will open their homes, Frank A. Berkey, general chairman, said.

Berkey added that 12 of the women solicitors had finished their campaigns, leaving 28 to continue the survey today.

Householders missed in the drive and who wish to rent sleeping quarters to the city's new industrial and business employes, are urged to contact the U. S. Employment Service office.

In addition to rooms already promised, Berkey said that 500 questionnaire cards had been left with householders who were undecided about renting spare rooms. Reports from these sources should be received in a few days, the chairman said.

One Year Ago War's End Was Celebrated---Peace Is Another Thing

A year ago this Aug. 14, a White House announcement brought the peoples of this nation onto the streets—a surrender proposal from the Japanese had been accepted and there was rejoicing to be done. Today, 12 months later, those same peoples watch and wonder, as 21 of the world's nations meet through their delegates in the Palace of Luxembourg at Paris endeavoring to write the peace, an international blueprint for a world that wants no more of war. ASKS EQUALITY FOR BULGARIA

Premier Urges Peace Parley to Grant Co-Belligerency Status to Nation.

PARIS —(INS)— Premier Kimon Georgiev of Bulgaria told a plenary session of the peace conference today that his people contributed to the struggle against Hitlerism and merited co-belligerency status

He said: "we men of the new Bulgaria don't wish to minimize the crimes of those who threw the country into war on the side of Germany The hateful alliance with the Nazis and the declaration of war against Great Britain and the United States transformed Bulgaria into a military base for Hitler."

Georgiev asserted, "these despicable actions of the pro-Hitler clique which later drove the Soviets to declare war on Bulgaria are crimes for which those responsible are being severely punished."

The Bulgarian premier, who seeks lighter peace terms for his country, spoke before half empty benches.

United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov were present but British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was absent.

Georgiev recalled that even under the Gestapo Bulgaria Succeeded in protecting its Jewish population. He denied that the Bulgarians participated in German aggression against Greece and Yugoslavia.

JUDGE DIES SUDDENLY

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The Ohio legal profession mourned today the death of Cleveland Municipal Judge Perry A. Frey, 50, who died suddenly at his home last night of a heart attack. The judge had sat on the bench at city hall yesterday and did not complain of any illness until late in the afternoon.

La Follette Tumbles, Losing to Newcomer

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(INS)—Sen. Robert M. La Follette, a veteran of 21 years' service in the U. S. senate, today was defeated for the Republican senatorial nomination by a political newcomer.

Circuit Judge Joseph E McCarthy, of Appleton, former marine corps veteran, held a lead of 5,435 votes over La Follette with but 29 of Wisconsin's 3,146 precincts unreported.

La Follette's vote in yesterday's primary was 192,836, McCarthy's was 198,271, and Perry J. Stearns of Milwaukee ran a poor third with 28,542.

LA FOLLETTE

La Follette, who sounded the death knell of the Progressive party founded by his late father when he campaigned for yesterday's primary on the GOP ticket, held a slim lead over McCarthy, who is only 37, through most of the night.

La Follette failed to carry the Milwaukee industrial precincts his campaign manager had believed were assured, and McCarthy slowly whittled away at the 51-year-old senator's margin. Early today the former gunner of a marine corps dive bomber squadron moved into the lead which the nearly complete but unofficial returns apparently assured him of nomination to the senate seat held by the La Follettes for 40 years.

Late this morning La Follette conceded defeat, and sent a telegram congratulating his victorious opponent.

HITS TOLEDO TAX

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The next regular session of the legislature will be asked to ban any payroll-income tax plan such as is in effect in Toledo. The one percent income-payroll tax in Toledo is yielding about four million dollars annually.

Liquor Dealers Defy WCTU Ban

SUSPECTS GET MENTAL TESTS

Examinations of OSR Youths Being Made in Jail By State Official.

Two Ohio State reformatory inmates held in the county jail on charges of murdering Janvere Lemoine Bruck, 18, at that institution last July 18, were reported undergoing mental tests in the jail at noon today.

Lewis Murton, 20, and Howard Nichols, 20, were being examined by Dr. J. F. Bateman, superintendent of the Columbus State hospital, at the request of county Prosecutor Theodore Lutz.

Bruck was attacked while he stood in a mess line at the institution.

Mansfield Private Dies In Okinawa Accident

Mansfield's celebration of the first anniversary of V-J day was marred today by a War Department dispatch reporting the death of Pfc. Harry M. Baker, 30, husband of Mrs. Catherine F. Baker, 550 Dewey avenue. He died Aug. 5 on Okinawa as a result of a vehicle accident.

Private Baker entered the army on March 15, 1945. He re-enlisted for overseas service last October. He had been stationed on Okinawa since June, following a short furlough at his home. He was a former Westinghouse employe.

A native of Buffalo, O., Baker came to Mansfield in 1935.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one son, Harry Merlin Baker, jr.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Baker of New Concord; five brothers, Warren, Roy, and Edward of Mansfield, Robert of Shel-

BRITISH FEAR NEW ATTACKS IN PALESTINE

Troops Partition Jerusalem, Speed Establishment of Defense Zones.

JERUSALEM — (U.P.) — British authorities today partitioned Jerusalem into three bristling defense zones in anticipation of attacks by Jewish underground elements in retaliation for the shipment of Jews from Haifa to Cyprus.

A government "fortress area" was created protected by barricades, machine-gun outposts, sandbagged installations and thickets of barbed-wire.

The remainder of the city was divided into two zones—Jewish Jerusalem and Arab Jerusalem and special defense units were installed in each zone, operating independently under the supreme British command.

The defense preparations were carried out as Palestine seethed with angry demonstrations by Jews. Police repeatedly fired into the air at various points to disperse the demonstrators.

Await Blow.

Opinion was general that the Jewish underground would strike back at the British. It was expected that it would attempt to carry out a dramatic blow, equal in daring to the blowing up of British headquarters in the King David hotel.

However, those familiar with the underground did not believe action would be taken for several days.

Haifa, Jerusalem and Tel Aviv —the Holy Land's main cities— had riotous street demonstrations during the night. Police fired into the air to disperse the crowds. A torchlight procession in the Tel Aviv stoned a British armored car and tried to set it afire.

Jewish leaders carried out a policy of non-cooperation with the Palestine government, which is headed by the British.

NAZIS DIE

Gauleiter of Alsace, Three Assistants, Executed.

STRASBOURG —(U.P.)— Robert Wagner, former Nazi gauleiter of Alsace, and three of his assistants were executed by a French firing squad today for war crimes.

The four men were executed in the courtyard of Fort Ney near Strasbourg at 5 a. m They were given death sentences by a French military tribunal last May.

Wagner shouted in German, "Long live greater Germany! Long Live Adolf Hitler! Long live National Socialism!" just before he died.

15-Year-Old Boy Faces Grand Jury

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Fifteen year old Warren Rose faced grand jury investigation today into the death of Daniel Enslow, 16, Fremont, O., inmate of the bureau of juvenile research whose killing followed escape from the BJR here.

The decision to handle Rose's case as a criminal matter rather than as one of juvenile delinquency was revealed yesterday by Juvenile Court Judge Clayton W. Rose.

AIRMAIL RATES DROP

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— A reduced airmail postage rate of five cents an ounce will go into effect Oct. 1 under a bill signed today by President Truman.

MAYOR CITES DEFICITS IN DEPARTMENT

Will Seek Council Action as Collections Run Estimated $27,000 in the Red.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn today asked for an increase in garbage collection rates.

He asserted that the boost should be sufficient to place the department on a "self-supporting basis" but gave no indication of the amount of increase that would be sought.

His announcement came as Secretary Fred E. Lingafelter reported the number of customers subscribing to the garbage service had reached 7,341, nearly 500 more than in the September-November period a year ago.

Survey Cited.

The mayor himself cited a six-months survey completed by Sanitation Supt. Al Strachan. On the basis of Strachan's report, Vaughn estimated that the department would show a loss of nearly $27,000 for the year.

Last year, City Auditor Paul Kelley said, the department went $11,000 "in the hole." It was subsidized by funds from other city departments.

Strachan said the city received $7.20 from each garbage collection customer. The cost of providing the service, he asserted, was $10.35 a customer.

The cost-per-customer figure includes labor, maintenance and salary charges for collection, hauling and burning.

Strachan's cost figure also includes depreciation on trucks and the garbage incinerator. Two of the city's four ash collecting trucks are 15 years old.

Because of the old equipment in use, Strachan reported, total cost of maintenance on trucks per week is about $66. This includes, however, the cost of gasoline, oil, and tires.

Bills Payable.

Bills for the September-October-November period, payable tomorrow through Aug. 25, total $13,515, Lingafelter said. Total bill for the period, including partial and advance payments, is $14,720, more than $1,000 greater than last year.

Lingafelter urged customers to send bill stubs if payment is by mail and to bring the entire bill if payment is made in person.

Under 1920 Ordinance.

The city is currently operating its garbage-ash collection service

WANTS 185,000

Army Recruiting Lag Brings Need For Draftees.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The army plans to ask selective service to call up 185,000 draftees between now and March 1, 1947, when the draft act expires.

Maj. Gen. W. S Paul, war department director of personnel, said 185,000 would be required unless there is a sudden and unexpected upward trend in voluntary recruiting.

Paul said the army would have only 885,000 volunteers by July 1, 1947, at the present enlistment rate. The army's authorized strength on that date, however, is 1,070,000. The first call for 25,000 will be made in September.

Declares Teaching Staffs Inadequate

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Inadequate teaching staffs were blamed today by Parma School Superintendent Carl C. Byers, in an article appearing in the current School Board Journal, for the nation's present critical school situation.

In turn, he blamed a number of factors, including low pay and insecurity of jobs, for the shortage of teachers. The Parma school official urged strongly that steps be taken to remedy the situation, and outlined a seven-point program for consideration.

LE KHEDIVE, champagne-colored square-cut diamond, one of the largest in the world, has emerged from the secret hiding place where it was kept during the war, and is offered for $500,000, American cash . . . It weighs more than 43 karats and has a romantic history . . . It was presented by Khedive Ismael to the Empress Eugenie at the inaugural ceremonies of the Suez Canal; was inherited by King Alfonso of Spain, and sold by him in 1930 for $500,000 in gold to the present owner, who hides his identity . . . It is now offered by Jose Claus, of Ghent, Belgium, to Jack Werts, of Dayton, O., who is so interested that he has applied for a passport to view the stone.

Werts is the second largest diamond dealer in the U. S. (Harry Winston, of New York is No. 1) . . . Werts bought the rock that Gloria Vanderbilt, sr., had to sell when Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski told her she was off the payroll . . . For a Daytonian, Werts is well known in the better Manhattan bistros . . . He gives newsboys $5 bills for papers and palms headwaiters with $100 notes . . . He is a moon-faced, smiling gent . . . While abroad, he will also bid for the Hesse jewels, the collection which figured in the Chicago pinch of that colonel and his WAC bride . . . Princess Margarita turned down his cabled bid, but he'll try the personal contact . . . He's in town now, at a jeweler's convention, in the Waldorf-Astoria.

Virginia Field's mother is en route from England, to sit out with her the waiting period in Las Vegas, Nev., toward divorcing Paul Douglas . . . Doris Duke holed in at Leroy sanitarium for a rest, a check-up and inaccessibility. She's left there and touch-letters will not be forwarded. (This is a necessary caution, as every time I mention a person of wealth, with an address, a flood of begging mail is loosed.)

Marlene Dietrich flew into Hollywood's port for her first picture in five years. She was exhausted, dispirited and disgusted. The flight had been long — from Paris, straight through. But she checked in next day at Paramount, to begin "Golden Earrings."

Pegler Fair Enough

NEW YORK—Henry J. Kaiser has honored me with a night letter, paid, from Oakland, Cal., running to about 1,600 words, entitled "Kaiser Demands Full Disclosure." This is a flattery that I must not permit to turn my head even though the cost, reckoned on figures provided by my actuary at the Western Union, would have been about $16.50.

It is more a political harangue in the manner of Senators Joe Guffey, of Pennsylvania, and Theodore Bilbo, of Mississippi, than a statement of position, crying out loud against scandal mongers, misleading statements, half-truths and character assassination and it reminds me of Samuel Insull and Elliott Roosevelt in their first reactions to open charges, subsequently proved.

Although the telegram is signed "Henry J. Kaiser," it is slugged, at the beginning, "From Henry J. Kaiser company, Publications Department, Kaiser Bldg., Oakland, Cal.," and I am thus enticed to speculate whether the company paid the tolls for a job of personal propaganda, at the rate of $16.50, multiplied by X, for I assume that others received the same text, and whether this cost will be deductible from the company's income as legitimate business expense.

At any rate, it sets up a resistance within me because I think it is up to me and the rest of the public to decide and not for Henry to say whether the accusers are just low scandal mongers and character assassins and their charges true or false.

Although Henry's telegram says that "unseen hands have set up a systematic campaign with a flood of articles to the press and, most amazingly, sent anonymously, thus hiding under a cloak of immunity," it has been my impression that the most emphatic comment on Kaiser's record, financial and productive, during the war, was made openly by Senator Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire.

I can think of no civilian of recent years, other than Roosevelt himself, who enjoyed more abundant and favorable personal publicity than Henry Kaiser and I would here mark a distinction between Kaiser's actual character and the character that was created for him in the public mind by propaganda. To injure his personal character would be one thing but to deflate or revise a provisional or mythical character would seem to be the duty of the same press that created it and it is not assassination to destroy a myth.

Early in the ship-building program, I began to hear from men who had been building ships for many years that Henry Kaiser's achievements were less substantial than his feats of publicity led most of us to believe and that he enjoyed favors from the Roosevelt regime, which constituted a handicap comparable to a stroke a hole.

During the war I received many letters from truly patriotic and disgusted citizens turned to ship-building in Henry's yards, telling of loafers sleeping, playing cards and visiting in obscure nooks of ships abuilding, their thought being that Henry was keeping idlers on the payroll as a labor reserve lest they disperse, if laid off, and he finds himself short of help in his expanding program.

Such memoranda should, I think, be considered in the inquiry that Mr. Kaiser now demands and any objection on the part of so fair and fine a fighter for truth and justice would disenchant me more cruelly than he should have the heart to do.

I agree with Henry in his desire for a full investigation, if that really is his desire and not just something from the "publications department" of his company. But I can't let him tell me in advance that the charges are scandal, misleading statements and half-truths. I will make my own decisions as to that on the evidence and if his character is put to death, after a fair trial, I shall have to regard that event as a legal execution, not assassination.

Hal Boyle Globe-Jotting

BAMBERG, Germany—(AP)—Major Cecil Hay is a forest lover.

"It gives me a good feeling every time I see a fine big tree," he observed during a lull in his duties as a public relations officer for the American constabulary force.

Old friends meeting the major sometimes hail him with "Hi, Doc," or utter some such nonsense as "two's company, tree's a crowd."

Long ago, the major worked briefly as a tree surgeon. His career lasted exactly a month. Since then, the major has done all sorts of odd jobs, from working as a salad chef to selling advertising. But he retains a nostalgia for the time when he cultivated a woodside manner for ailing forest monarchs.

"I don't recall," he said, "that I ever lost a single tree."

His interest in things woodland began after a quick rise to fame as a member of the Bangor high school apple judging team, which won the Michigan state championship in 1925.

Hay found employment in a nursery and after studying for several months emerged as a full-fledged tree surgeon.

"A tree surgeon's work is really as much dental as surgical in nature," he said. "Except for trimming branches it consists largely of filling cavities. Most of the customers are wealthy people with big estates.

"You first have to inspire them with a feeling of confidence — the owners, not the trees — so you always wear boots. People have more confidence in a tree surgeon when he wears boots.

"You have to remember to park your truck in the driveway instead of rolling right over the lawn to the tree. You are paid by the hour, so you don't run to the tree. You walk erectly with short military strides that give an onlooker the impression you are getting down to business fast."

In his heyday, Hay said, tree surgeons frowned on workers who carried more than one tool to the tree at a time.

"If you needed another tool, you walked back and got it," he said, "always with short brisk strides."

"After locating a cavity, you chisel out all the dead heartwood and replace it with concrete," he continued.

"It might pay a dentist to leave a little decay at the bottom of a filling in hopes of getting return business but that isn't true of tree surgery. By the time the tree rotted out again, you or the owner would be dead. Besides you are paid by the hour so you might just as well take your time and do a good job."

A rankling sense of injustice led Hay to abandon his arboreal calling after he discovered his employer was charging $2.25 an hour for his time but paying him only 75 cents.

"I quit right then," he said, "but I must admit it was several years later before I ever earned 75 cents an hour again. That was a nice healthy life up there in the trees."

WESTINGHOUSE JOBS HIT HIGH MARK AT 6,000

Production at 80 Per Cent of 1941 Monthly Rate, Ashbaugh Reports.

Employment at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant is now at an all-time high with production up to 80 per cent of the monthly rate of 1941, J. H. Ashbaugh, vice president in charge of the electrical appliance division, said today in a report on the first year of consumer production since V-J Day.

Six thousand workers are now employed at the plant, 1,000 more than during any prewar or wartime peak, Ashbaugh said. Items now nearing full-scale production are ranges, refrigerators, roasters, Laundromats and irons, with warming pads, hot plates, toasters and electric heaters expected to be in production by the end of the year.

"The Mansfield plant was able to reach this rate figure by concentrating on appliances that are in greatest need," Ashbaugh said. "Although the full line of Westinghouse appliances are not available, gradually more models are coming into production to give buyers a wider selection for their needs."

Ashbaugh added that it "is disappointing" that the year's total production since last August "will not be near the 1941 figure."

He cited factors which have kept production under par as material and component part supply, maintaining and training manpower and strikes within the industry.

"Labor strikes this year have made the material situation so tight that it has probably cost the appliance industry at least four months of production," the vice president said. "This has kept from the market new products as well as a greater selection of present products."

The problem of getting manpower that will stay on the job was also cited as a serious problem.

$120,000,000 More Sought for Future.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced today in New York a $120,000,000 financing plan to provide funds for completion of a $132,000,000 plant expansion program and for increased working capital needed for unprecedented peace-time production. Local plant officials said that a portion of the funds would be used to help defray cost of the $6,000,000 expansion program now underway in the city.

Review Board Delays Action On Refuge, Volunteers Appeals

An application of Angell Refuge, incorporated, to permit E. A. Bellevue to conduct a drive for $15,000 to erect a new home for stray dogs was held up today by the Public Appeals Review board pending action by the Refuge in obtaining a building permit from the Civilian Production administration.

Sam Fox, member of the corporation's board of directors said a five acre site has been obtained three miles from the city off Park avenue west road.

In making application, representatives of the Refuge said that only cinder blocks and materials not needed for home construction would be used.

The building would contain a three room residence for Misses Florence and Helen Workman, who operate the refuge, and two wings containing kennels and medical room. It was estimated that the building could care for 100 dogs.

The Review board withheld action until permission to build is granted by CPA.

An application from the Volunteers of America was also held up pending further information on financial operations of the organization. Permission was sought to raise approximately $4,000 by public subscription.

Speeder Tries Hard But Fails

Leslie E. Sebold, jr., of Roosevelt, L. I., N. Y., tried hard today to beat a speeding charge in municipal court. But the state highway patrol's master speedometer proved him wrong.

Charged with driving 65 miles an hour on U. S. Route 42-N last night, Sebold, in court this morning, used paper and pencil and jawbreaker figures in an attempt to prove he wasn't going that fast.

He argued about the wear and tear on tires and how that should effect the speed of a car; the different road conditions between Ohio and New York and something or other about "gear ratios."

But a test of his car's speedometer against the state highway patrol's master speed checker showed that Sebold's speedometer was off just 13 miles an hour He was fined $10 and costs.

TAKES TRAINING

Donald E. Baxter, Mansfield R. D. 4, is one of 22 Ohioans—half of them veterans of World War II—who have been accepted for training as inspectors of the state department of liquor control, Director Robert M. Sohngen announced today. The men will be given a month of training, after which they must pass a written examination to be eligible for appointment.

SURVEY PLANNED OF AIRPORT ROAD

Commissioners to Provide Funds For Studying New Route 13.

Richland county commissioners today agreed to appropriate funds for the survey of a new highway route to replace county road 13-A. Unofficial estimates were that the survey would cost between $2,000 and $3,000.

The agreement was reached in a one-hour session with three members of the Richland county automobile club and a business representative of Mansfield and one from north of the city.

No proposals were made for the location of the projected route. County Engineer Walter E. Rusk voiced the opinion that federal aid might be more readily obtained if the new road was routed around the airport on the east and entered Mansfield so to avoid the numerous railroad crossings on North Main street.

State Won't Help.

The auto club took their request for a route to replace County Road 13-A to the commissioners after Harold Gerold, division engineer of the state highway department at Ashland, had reported that the state could not take part in providing a new road until the local political subdivision, in this case the commissioners, made a survey and provided land for a right-of-way.

Representing an Auto club membership of 4,000 were Carl Stander, president; S. P. Inscho, and F. C. Small, John Conard, of the Richland County Shale Brick company, and Harry Lantz of the Lantz Milling company, represented business firms.

Rites Held Today For Crash Victim

Funeral services for Mrs. Arthur G. Hoover, 64, 334 West Sixth street, were arranged for 3 p. m. today at the Finefrock funeral home with the Rev. Henry Boehm, pastor of the Oakland Lutheran church in charge.

Burial was scheduled in Windsor cemetery.

Mrs. Hoover died early Sunday in General hospital of injuries suffered in an auto collision at the corner of West Fourth street and Penn avenue.

Survivors besides her husband include two foster children, Mrs. Alfred Sneeringer of Mansfield and George L. Bates with the U. S. navy at Bainbridge, Md., formerly erroneously reported by the funeral home as cousins; one sister, Mrs. Ray Bush of Mansfield and one brother, Delbert Roberts of Concord, Calif.

GOING AFTER FEDERAL AID

Commissioners Move to Get More Funds For County TB Sanatorium.

Richland county commissioners today began the job of getting federal funds to add to the $300,000 bond issue for erection of a county tuberculosis sanatorium.

Informed by Congressman J. Harry McGregor that a bill making $94,000,000 available annually during the next five years for public health projects had been signed by the president, the commissioners sought to have the sanatorium included on the list of federally aided institutions.

They requested State Health Director R. E. Hearing to include the sanatorium on a survey to be conducted by the state with $2,000,000 granted by the federal government.

If the sanatorium is approved in the survey it will be eligible for money to be appropriated by the next congress from the $94,000,000 made available under the measure signed yesterday.

Commissioners and Architect Herbert S. Jones revealed last week that they considered the $300,000 insufficient to build the sanatorium because of increased material and labor costs.

Johannas Gottas Succumbs In Home

Johanna Gottas, 70, 100 Glenwood Heights, died early this morning at the Apostolic Christian home on Route 30 east of Mansfield. She had been ill three days.

She was born in Austria-Hungary on July 20, 1876 and came to Mansfield 55 years ago. She was a member of the Apostolic Christian church.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Joel Beer and Hermine Gottas, and one brother, Robert F. Gottas, all of Mansfield.

Services will be conducted Friday at 3 p. m. in the Wappner funeral home. The Apostolic church will have charge. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

NAMES MACKEY

Firm Selects Office Manager For Vetsville.

W. K. Mackey, former personnel officer at the Ohio State reformatory, has been appointed office manager of Vetsville by the W. B. Gibson company, it was announced today.

Mackey, who has been chief of the state division of probation and parole in Columbus for the past seven years, will be in charge of payroll requisitions for material for the construction work at the village, it was stated.

Mackey was personnel officer at the reformatory for eight years before going to Columbus. He assumed duties at Vetsville this week.

The definite date of opening of Vetsville has not been determined, according to Mackey.

Sanitary Sewer Contract Awarded

Board of Control today awarded a contract for the construction of a sanitary sewer in the Bowers avenue district to R. O. Darling on his low bid of $13,254. Only other bid was one submitted by Roger J. Au for $17,176.

Completion of the sewer will permit opening of a new addition expected to be the site of some 50 to 70 homes. The area has already been platted for James Burkhart, hart.

The sewer is also to serve intersections at Superior, and East Arch streets, Remy, Greenlawn and Home avenues.

Gouge Discharged At Great Lakes

(Special to The News-Journal)

Clavin W. Gouge, seaman first class, Phoenix hotel, North Main street, was discharged today at Great Lakes, Ill., naval separation center along with four other Mansfield area navy veterans.

Others separated were: Ralph B Smith, fireman first class, Ashland; James W. Seaton, yeoman third class, Bucyrus; Burt Bonness, seaman first class, Painesville; and Arnold J. Boggs, machinist's mate third class, Mt. Gilead.

OTHERS WARY TO MAKE BIDS ON SANATORIUM

Architect Cites Letters From Builders to Back 'Let's Delay' Advice.

A black market in labor was one of the reasons contractors cited for their lack of interest in bidding on the proposed new $300,000 tuberculosis sanatorium.

Architect H. S. Jones released today the texts of letters received from builders. On the basis of the letters, he told the county commissioners last Wednesday that contractors "just aren't interested in the job" because of inflationary prices.

That inflation, the letters indicated, isn't all in the price for materials. One contractor wrote:

"There is also a black market in labor."

Jones told the commissioners the $300,000 bond issue approved by the voters last fall would not now build the sanatorium.

'Fictitious Overtime.'

It was L. M. Leonard company, engineers and contractors of Columbus, that wrote about the labor black market. It said:

"Notwithstanding labor rates for brick masons at $2, carpenters at $1.75, common labor at $1 and tenders at $1.25, it is necessary, in order to get men, to offer overtime or fictitious overtime at double time rate. In other words, there is also a black market in labor.

"The material situation is that of few firm prices and a most uncertain delivery schedule with a legitimate black market in the way of 'extras.' In such chaotic price conditions, it is practically impossible to place a bid without its being ridiculously high. Our own opinion is that it will be better if projects are held off the market until conditions become more stabilized."

Better Next Year.

Said Simon Small and Sons company, engineers and builders of Mansfield—"We would not be interested in the job at this time, owing to the fact that it is almost impossible to secure lumber and anything special is out. We believe if the board would wait until next year, it would stand a better chance of getting it built."

Here are what some other contractors said:

Snow Plumbing company of Mt. Vernon—"We have repeatedly advised prospective builders against proceeding with construction. Never in the history of the building industry has the owner received as little for his money, together with a maximum of delay, confusion and frustration.

"We are not bidding any type of work. The uncertainty of cost and overhead and availability of mechanics and material makes it impossible. There are firms submitting bids on all and any type of work, but we cannot imagine why, unless they need a new job to pay for their last one."

Richland Electric company of Mansfield—"As much as I regret to discourage any project for the betterment of the community my experience indicates that obtaining necessary electrical material and devices with which to complete a job of this nature in any reasonable length of time would be an impossibility."

Best to Wait.

Charles Hoffman company, plumbing and heating contractors of Mansfield — "Owing to the scarcity of some of the very important material, it is our opinion, backed by experience, that it would be best to wait some time before starting this project. We do not recommend that it be started now."

Hoffman, however, said that if the county commissioners should decide to proceed with the sanatorium, his firm would be pleased to offer a quotation on the plumbing and heating part of the work.

In contrast, the Diamond Electric company of Sandusky wrote to Jones that its officers thought "it feasible to offer the hospital project to the trade at this time." But, they added, "we are not in a position at the present time to bid on the project."

Without any advice on whether the commissioners should proceed, the Verderber Construction company, contractors of Toledo, wrote that it would like to submit a bid for the excavation work necessary on the sanatorium project.

Labor Rates Again Cited.

On the other hand, Steinle-Wolfe, Inc., general contractors of Fremont, wrote:

"In our opinion it is not feasible to offer these jobs to the trade at this time for the following reasons: 1—Labor rates are very unstable. 2—Building materials are very hard to get, deliveries uncertain . . . prices are unstable so a contractor doesn't know what the item will cost until it is delivered and billed. 3—Skilled building mechanics are very scarce, particularly in the Mansfield area. It takes twice as long to complete a building as it should. 4—At the present time and until wages and material prices become stable we will not bid or accept a lump sum contract but will no doubt be in shape to entertain new work on a cost plus basis in the spring of 1947."

What promises to be the best Richland county golf tournament ever held is rapidly taking form although it is still one month away.

And one point that should be cleared up right now is a mistake that this writer made a few weeks ago in the story announcing the plans for the tourney at Westbrook Country club.

That story stated that "it would be necessary for all public links golfers to qualify while the Westbrook and Shelby Country club golfers would be exempt from qualifying."

This was a misunderstanding on my part and I wasn't informed of it until a few days ago and then again yesterday.

There is no qualifier for the county tourney. Each entrant simply fills out a blank giving his handicap and his lowest score made this year.

These are to be sent to the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Only item in connection with the tournament for which Westbrook players will be exempt is in payment of green fees. This is already covered in their regular membership.

Thirty-six holes will be played on Sunday, Sept. 15, with Frank Jocha defending the title he won last year.

While most minds are shaping up towards the football season, there still are a few who will be thinking in terms of basketball.

Vern Hoffman, Mansfield high cage coach, will attend a three-day basketball school at Logansport, Ind., the hotbed of the hardwood sport.

It will be under the direction of Cliff Wells, now head cage mentor at Tulane university, and formerly of Indiana.

This Friday night up at Toledo the first annual all-Ohio football game between the North and South teams will be played.

* * *

Made up of seniors who were named to the press service all-Ohio squads last fall, the gridders have been working out for nearly a week under the direction of Paul Bixler of Ohio State and Frank Leahy of Notre Dame.

The game will climax a coaching school that is being conducted there this week—and it should benefit greatly the athletic till at Waite high school.

* * *

There's going to be several football fans from Mansfield sitting in the stands at Soldier Field in Chicago a week from Friday night for the Los Angeles Rams-College All-Star football tussle. . . . At least a number of them have ordered tickets.

Barnes Reaches Semi-Finals In Tournament

Safety Cabs Play Tonight; Post 72's Monday Victory Disallowed.

MARION—Barnes Manufacturing of Mansfield advanced to the semi-final round of the 1946 district softball tournament by rolling to an easy 14 to 6 victory over the Upper Sandusky Elks lodge aggregation here last night.

Barnes and Safety Cabs are the only Mansfield teams left in the field as American Legion Post 72 used an ineligible player in beating Universal Cooler of Marion Monday night. Safety Cabs meets Universal Cooler in a quarter-final game tonight at 9 o'clock. Ashland Strine's and Carey Merchants open the card at 8 p. m.

McKinney, Post 72 pitcher, was ruled ineligible by tournament authorities after Universal Cooler had protested Monday's 3 to 1 decision. Officials found that McKinney was not a bona fide resident of Mansfield and awarded the contest to the Marion nine.

Barnes and Smitty's Grill of Marion reached the semi-final round in games last night. Smitty's buried Marion Phalanx Frat., 15 to 0. The two teams collide tomorrow night at 8.

Stub Winebrenner pitched a steady game as Barnes eliminated the Upper Sandusky outfit. He permitted only seven hits and had a 12 to 1 lead before easing up in the sixth inning. Winebrenner whiffed nine.

Barnes scored six times in the opening frame and put the contest on ice with a quartet of tallies in the third.

Shortstop Bush led the hit-parade with "3 for 4."

Colonels Lead AA By 2 Games

(By Associated Press)

Louisville increased its lead to two full games over Indianapolis in the tight American association baseball pennant race Tuesday night as the Colonels swept a four-game series with a 2 to 0 triumph over Kansas City, while the Indians dropped a 9 to 2 decision to Milwaukee.

In other league hontests, Toledo went 10 innings to defeat Minneapolis, 12 to 11, and Columbus beat St. Paul, 5 to 1. St. Paul's defeat put the third-place apostles five and one-half games behind the pacesetting Colonels.

Joe Ostrowski, Louisville left-hander, allowed Kansas City only three hits in chalking up his first shutout this season. Jim Gleeson opened the Colonels' half of the seventh with a walk, went to third on Al Flair's single and scored what turned out to be the winning marker when acting manager Fred Walters knocked into a double play.

WEISMAN GETS PURSE AND NEW CONTRACT

CLEVELAND — Trainer Max Weisman's 25 years' of service with the Cleveland Indians were well rewarded today.

Last night in ceremonies before the Indians met the Detroit Tigers, Weisman was presented a purse of $6,000 and a new 10-year contract as trainer.

Bill Veeck To Speak Before Two Clubs Tomorrow

By HAL CLAWSON

A showman is coming to town tomorrow!

And besides being a man full of ideas on how to entertain baseball crowds, he also is a great sportsman.

Bill Veeck's the name and his occupation is owner and president of the Cleveland Indians.

Tomorrow noon Bill will be in town to speak at a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs at the Mansfield Leland hotel.

A showman par-excellence, the young prexy has given Cleveland baseball fans a new brand of baseball with plenty of added attractions.

And these new things have given the fans something to talk about and has helped to increase attendance at the games. That 75,000 record crowd a week ago last Sunday is an example of the way fans in northern Ohio will turn out.

Fireworks, which seemingly have no place inside a ball park, have been among the new entertainment ideas established by Veeck.

Besides all this extra work to draw in the fans, he hasn't forgotten that they also want to see some good baseball. To meet their wishes, Veeck has done everything possible at this stage of the season to give them a better ball club.

And what's more important is that the Indians have been playing inspired ball and are winning more games than they did before Veeck and his associates took over.

Bill should have some interesting things to tell the two clubs—and he may even provide something that isn't on the program. You can't tell about this fellow.

P. D. Bar Still Tops N-J Loop

P. D. Bar maintained its lead in the News-Journal golf league with a 4 to 1 victory over Flexible Conveyor last night on the Possum Run links.

Tucker Furniture and Blue Goose kept in the running with 5 to 0 wins over Globe Steel and Richland Printing. In other matches Que Billiards topped Ideal Billiards, 4 to 1, and Gorman-Rupp split with Orr Typewriter.

A. Kuchin of Ideal Billiards copped medalist honors with a sparkling 33 while Al Hager, Blue Goose No. 1 man, was second with a 35.

Who Says It's the Woman Who Pays

NEW YORK — The Dodgers were rained out yesterday but just the same it was "fine" weather for Manager Leo (Lippy) Drocher, who was asked to make another of his periodical assessments to the National league coffers for bickering with umpires.

League President Ford Frick who announced that Durocher had been given a "stiff fine" also said that he would question the umpire involved, George Magerkurth.

Browns Back on 2 A Day Grid Diet

BOWLING GREEN, O.—(INS)—Two daily training sessions were reinstated today by the Cleveland Browns in their Bowling Green training camp. Timing of plays was particularly stressed in training.

Coach Paul Brown eliminated body contact work among his all America conference pro players because of injuries. Tackle Len Simonetti, of New Philadelphia, twisted his left knee but Trainer Wally Back said the injury was not serious.

Grid Feud Flares As Rams File Suit

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Another round in the controversy between the National Football league and the all America conference was added today with the filing of a suit to prevent pro Tackle Chet Adams from playing with the Cleveland Browns.

The Los Angeles Rams, who moved their National league franchise early this year from the Ohio city, sought to regain the services of the huge, one-time Ram linesman.

Reynolds Meets LaBell On Mat

Davey Reynolds of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Pierre LaBell of Canada will tangle in the main one hour bout on the wrestling card at the Armory arena Thursday night. Two out of three falls will decide the winner.

Jack Vansky and Ace Abbott clash in the one-hour semi-final bout that opens the show at 8:30.

LaBell is making a special appearance in Columbus tonight and will be held over for the show here Thursday.

MOOSE WINS, 9 TO 0, BEHIND AID GEIGER

ASHLAND — With Aid Geiger turning in a classy four-hit mound job, Mansfield Moose lodge defeated Ashland V.F.W., 9 to 0, here last night.

Mansfield clinched the result in the second inning when singles by Wolfe, Uhlich and Vogel plated one marker. Schaffer homered in the sixth with the bases empty.

Ferriss Taking Bows As Top Soph Hurler

Hangs Up 20th Win For Second Year; Feller Drops Tough One.

By JACK HAND, AP Sports Writer.

Dave Ferriss, labeled "just another wartime pitcher" when he flopped in his first two 1946 starts, is taking bows today as the first hurler since Cleveland's Wes Ferrell in 1930 to win 20 games in each of his first two complete big league seasons.

The Boston sophomore's 20-4 record overshadows Hal Newhouser and Bobby Feller and gives him an outside chance at the coveted 30-win season.

Ferriss was not as effective as usual last night in downing Philadelphia, 7-5, with nine hits but he had the big guns of Teddy Williams and Johnny Pesky booming at his back. Williams' two doubles helped drive in two runs and Pesky's three hits sparked the 11-hit attack on Bob Savage at Shibe park.

Feller's bid for win No. 22 failed when Dizzy Trout blanked Cleveland with three hits for a 1-0 Detroit edge. Bob Lemon finished up after Feller was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Chicago clung to sixth place in the American by sweeping both ends of the first twilight-night doubleheader of the season at St. Louis. Frankie Hayes' two-run single in the seventh enabled Edgar Smith to earn the decision in the opener, 3-2, and Taft Wright's ninth-inning single cashed in Orval Grove's four-hitter in the second game, 2-1.

Lefty Johnny Schmitz of the Chicago Cubs prevented the St. Louis Cardinals from taking over the National league lead when he blanked them with three hits, 1-0, to outpoint Harry Brecheen, at Wrigley field. The leading Brooklyn Dodgers were rained out.

Cincinnati's slumping Reds lost their eighth in a row and fell to within a single game of the sixth-place Giants, bowing to Pittsburgh 3 to 2.

Wet grounds forced postponement of the scheduled Washington-New York Yankee game and rain washed away the tilt between the Philadelphia Phillies and Boston Braves.

TRACK PRACTICE

Mansfield Junior Olympic track and field men will practice tonight at 6:30 on the Stadium Field cinders.

Gorman-Rupp Wins Eighth

Gorman-Rupp smashed Ideal Electric, 17 to 3, last night at Liberty park to strengthen its second place position in the Industrial softball circuit.

The G-R nine has won eight of ten contests while the first-place Barnes Manufacturing squad has copped seven of eight. Barnes game with Humphryes was postponed last night to allow the league-leaders to play in the district meet at Marion.

Gorman-Rupp cascaded 15 runs across the platter in the first three innings and then increased the lead to 17 to 0 in the sixth. Ideal's trio of tallies came in the top of the seventh.

Harrington Aircrafters won a forfeit from Tappan Stove in the other scheduled tilt.

MT. GILEAD RACE CARD LARGEST YET

Between 125 and 150 Horses Entered at Morrow County Fair.

MT. GILEAD—Between 125 and 150 horses, the largest number in the history of the track, have been entered in the races at the 96th annual Morrow county fair which gets under way at the fairgrounds in Mt. Gilead today and continues through Saturday night, according to L. L. Blayney, superintendent of speed.

The Thursday program has been changed to include four races of three heats each instead of three races as previously scheduled. The two-year-old pace will be broken into two races, a pace and trot, with purses of $300 being given in each race.

Also on the Thursday schedule will be a 2:17 pace and a 2.27 trot, both with purses of $600. G. Riggs of Bellefontaine will be the starter at all races.

On Friday three races, a 2:17 trot, 2:27 pace, and 2.21 trot are scheduled, each with a $600 purse. Saturday, the last day of racing, will see a 2.21 pace, free-for-all pace and a free-for-all trot, again with $600 purses.

The track is judged by horsemen as one of the best in the state. Race patrons are also offered pari-mutuel betting and photo finish decisions will be employed.

A record number is expected to attend the fair this year which, according to Leo Wilcox, secretary, will be one of the best ever. In addition to a large midway and exhibits, night shows will be presented in front of the grandstand on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

REJECT OPERA HOUSE OFFERS

Ashland Mayor Says $51,150 Far Below Real Value of Structure.

ASHLAND — Mayor Glenn B. Haller decided to reject both of the two bids submitted for the Opera House and councilmen reverted to the considerations of long standing regarding possible use of the site for a city building.

Bids were rejected after Mayor Haller told council he was disappointed that only two bids were submitted and that the high bid was for only $51,150, considered by the mayor as far below the real value of the site.

Long condemned for use as a theater, the main part of the building has been empty for many years while some other portions are occupied by the city library, a gift shop and city waterworks offices.

Suggestions made by council ranged from razing of the building and replacing it with a modern city building to razing it and leaving the site vacant until its use could be decided upon. It was also suggested at the council meeting that the long-unused third floor be removed and the remaining two floors improved

Whether or not the building will be put up for sale again remains undetermined this week.

Work on New Bank Begins In Bucyrus

BUCYRUS—Construction started this week on the Second National bank corner at Washington Square for the new quarters to be occupied by the bank. Work is being directed by Alfred Travers, construction superintendent for the Bank Building and Equipment company of St. Louis.

The bank has owned the corner where the new quarters will be located for 30 years. The new quarters will be the latest in modern bank equipment and construction. The Sears Roebuck order office, now located at the rear of the corner building, is expected to move into the old bank building.

PREPARE EXHIBITS

BUCYRUS—Displays were being prepared for placement at the county fairgrounds for the Crawford county junior fair which will open here Tuesday of next week and continue through Wednesday.

Schlotterer-Strauss Vows Said In Willard Recently

On the occasion of her parents' 32nd wedding anniversary, Anna Pauline Schlotterer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl F. Schlotterer, of Willard, was united in marriage with Vernon Strauss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Strauss, also of Willard.

Before an altar banked with white gladiolas and candelabra the double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. B. Fralick in the St. Francis Xavier church Aug. 8, at 9 a m

Miss Schlotterer's gown was of brocaded marquisette fashioned with a fitted bodice, wrist-length sleeves, sweetheart neckline, and long train; from a beaded tiara flowed her finger-tip veil, and she carried white roses. She wore pearls, a gift of the groom.

Theresa Schlotterer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a yellow celanese gown with a large picture hat of matching color. She carried talisman roses and blue delphinium. The bridesmaid wore blue net over taffeta, also with a large matching picture hat, and carried pink roses Sweetheart necklaces, gifts of the bride, complemented the costumes of each attendant.

Karl Schlotterer, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were George Schlotterer and Walter Frederick, brother and brother-in-law of the bride, respectively. Mass servers were Joseph. James, Louis, and William Schlotterer, all brothers of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the Schlotterer residence for members of the bridal party. A reception was held later at the Eagles' hall, with places set for 75 guests, at tables attractively decorated with snapdragons, fern, and white tapers.

For travelling, the bride chose an aqua ensemble with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. After a three-week motor trip to Spokane, Wash., the couple will make their home in Willard, where the groom is employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Avilla, Highland, Ft. Wayne, Ind., Brooklyn, N. Y., Plymouth, Huron, and Cleveland.

MRS. HAPPY JACK'S SECRET

If you've a secret folks won't know it
Unless by your acts you show it.
—Old Mother Nature.

Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel wasn't happy. No, sir, he wasn't happy. He was feeling out of sorts. He was cross. It was all Mrs. Happy Jack's fault. Anyway he thought so. He said so.

"What is the matter with you?" he barked. "Are you sick?"

"Nothing is the matter with me," snapped Mrs. Happy Jack. She was cross too.

"Then why do you insist on staying at home by yourself. You act as if you don't want me around," Happy Jack barked.

"I don't," barked Mrs. Happy Jack. It sounded as if she really meant it.

Happy Jack looked hurt. He looked puzzled. He was both. "There certainly is something the matter with you," he declared. "You've raised a fine family. The youngsters are doing all right for themselves. You don't have to worry about them any more. There is nothing to keep you at home. You need to play around, get more and better food, have a good time. You are too thin. Your coat is thin and mussy. Your tail is a disgrace. What you need is a change. You stick around that nest as if you couldn't bear to leave it or let it be out of your sight. By the way, why do you drive me away every time I come near it? Isn't it as much my nest as yours?"

"No," barked Mrs. Happy Jack. "Just keep away from it. That's all I ask of you. I don't want you around. Is that plain?"

It was. Happy Jack said so. He declared he didn't want to be where he wasn't wanted and Mrs. Happy Jack could stay by herself for all he cared. Then he left by way of the tree tops, still very much out of sorts. Presently he was picking a quarrel with his small cousin, Chatterer the Red Squirrel, as was usual when they met. It was their way of having a good time, enjoying themselves. Some folks are queer, aren't they?

Now Happy Jack and Mrs. Happy had been overheard by Blacky the Crow perched in a neighboring tree and unseen by them. Blacky the Crow has a wise head on his black shoulders. Yes, sir, he has so. He cocked it on one side as he listened.

"Mrs. Happy Jack has a secret," thought Blackey. "That is what is the matter with her and all that is the matter. She has a secret and she is trying to keep secret the fact that she has a secret. Folks are funny about secrets. The surest way to keep a secret is not to let any one suspect you have one. But a lot of folks give themselves away and let others know they have secrets by trying too hard to keep their secrets."

"Mrs. Happy Jack has a secret," thought Blacky.

He listened for a minute to Happy Jack and Chatter calling each other names, then watched Mrs. Happy Jack adding a twig with two or three leaves to her already big nest. "What is she living up that nest for?" thought Blacky. "One might think that she is fixing it up for a nursery. But she has raised her family for this year. Her babies were born early in the spring. They are almost as big as their parents now and have left home, are out in the Great World for themselves. Can it be she has more babies? Is that her secret? I wonder."

Just then Mrs. Blacky joined him. What have you been sitting here so long for?" she asked

"I am wondering," replied Blacky.

"What are you wondering? It must be something interesting to keep you here so still for so long," said Mrs. Blacky.

"I am wondering what Mrs. Happy Jack's secret is, if it is what I think perhaps it is," replied Blacky.

"What is it you think?" demanded Brs. Blacky.

"That in that big nest over there in that tree there may be babies, and that is Mrs. Happy Jack's secret," replied Blacky.

"Pooh! She had her babies just a little earlier than we had ours," exclaimed Mrs. Blacky.

"She could have a second family" said Blacky mildly. "They would be very young and tender," he added, more to himself than to Mrs. Blacky. What did he mean?

The next story: "The Observer."

RACING NEWS MAGNATE DIES

Gangster Efforts to Murder Ragen Succeed When His Wounds Prove Fatal.

CHICAGO—(INS)—James M. Ragen, sr., 65, millionaire racing news magnate who was critically wounded by gangsters who waylaid him at a traffic stop June 24, died early today at Michael Reese hospital.

Death was due to uremic poisoning which set in following a kidney operation last Thursday.

Ragen's shoulder was riddled by shotgun slugs in the gangster ambush and he had been in the hospital since he was wounded.

His condition never improved sufficiently for him to be questioned at length about his charges that members of Al Capone's old mob were seeking to take over all Chicago's lucrative horse racing business.

It was learned, however, that FBI agents secretly had conferred with him in the hospital, gathering names and data on hoodlums' activities in muscling in on racing news and hand books.

Ragen's son, James jr., has carried on his father's business since the ambush shooting.

Ragen foiled an earlier attempt to waylay him when he outraced two men in an automobile chase last April 29. He drove at high speed to a police station and took refuge from his pursuers.

Afterward, he said:

"I realize the dangers facing me in my business, but I'll always hate hoodlums; the big ones and the little bookmaker hoodlums.

"I won't play ball with them, and I'll fight all the way to keep them from getting their dirty hands on my racing service or any of my publications."

The challenge was accepted by the hoodlums, who hated and feared him, and led to the final attempt on his life.

Primitive Hainan Islanders Pierce Initiates' Tongues In Weird Ritual

HAIKOW, Hainan—(UP)—Each year on the 13th day of the fifth moon, the primitive Hainan islanders, descendants of the tribal peoples of Indo-China, perform a strange ceremony by driving long iron spears through the tongues of young initiates.

This ritual takes place in honor of the birthday of Kuan Yu, Chinese god of war.

Foreigners this year were permitted to view the ceremony for one of the rare times in history. D. R. Straug, a resident of Hainan island, described it in the China weekly review.

Kuan Yu started life as a bean curd peddler but achieved lasting fame when he refused to take a bribe.

He was the "Magnificent Prince," the "Warrior Prince and Civilizer," and the "Supporter of Heaven and Protector of the Kingdom." It was this last title that eventually won him distinction as the God of War.

The ceremony in his honor takes place in the Temple of the God of War.

Priests harangued the crowd until all were fully in the spirit of the occasion, Straub said.

Then the priests selected six young men and led them to an altar. Each was given a pipe, probably containing drugged tobacco. The initiates appeared in a daze after smoking.

The climax of the ceremony was reached when six iron spears, each about 10 feet long and the diameter of a man's little finger, were produced.

A spear was thrust through the outstretched tongue of each initiate. Then the six were lifted onto platforms borne on the shoulders of coolies. They were carried through the streets of the town.

Kuan Yu was born in Chien Hsien, Shansi, in 162 A. D. and rose to fame as an incorruptible general. He formed a close friendship with two comrades in what has come to be known as the "Oath of the Peace Orchard."

His fame, like many Chinese deities, came after his death. It was greatly increased during the last half of the Manchu dynasty, when, in 1856, he is reported to have appeared in the heavens and turned a Manchu rout into a victory. For this service, the emperor Hsien Feng raised him to equal rank with Confucius.

His humble beginning as a bean curd peddler in his native village has also made him the patron saint of bean curd peddlers and executioners.

The latter think that the spirits of the criminals they execute cannot follow them home if they pray at Kuan Yu's shrine.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

After you have told your partner all about your hand, by means of your bids, and he then makes a call which you know he intends as the contract, you must trust his decision. Panic, beause you think your hand is of value only in your own suit, should not lead you to take it out into a higher level. That kind of action is justified only if there is some salient fact about your hand which you have not yet told him, and which he could not logically be expected to guess.

South heard both of North's first two club bids—the one as a positive first responsive to the slightly overbold two-bid and the other as a rebid to show strength after South disclosed his diamonds. He knew he could not count on North probably for anything except in clubs, and North should have realized that South knew this.

When the Blackwood convention then disclosed to South that North had the one missing king and one of the two missing aces, he made the correct bid of 6-No Trumps. If North, in answer to the 5-No Trumps question about kings, had indicated a lack of them with 6-Clubs, South was going to leave the contract there and make North try to catch the club K in a finesse, which was a 50-50 chance in view of South's holding.

The more important factor, however, was that South, who had started the Blackwood, was the only one of the two partners in position to know whether any aces or kings were out against the side. He knew all about the defenders holding one, so was making a very sound decision when he called the 6-No Trumps North should have let that decision stand, instead of taking it out to the unmakable 7-Clubs, which got set by the heart A lead.

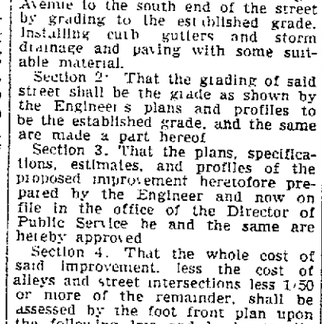
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If North raises South's 3-Hearts to game, what factor should clearly mark the sound defense after West leads the club 3?

STOCKS SWAY IN IRREGULAR PRICE WAVES

Market Shows Up and Down Trend About Noon After Quiet Opening.

NEW YORK — (INS) — The stock market turned irregular around noon today after a steady and quiet opening following a surprise walkout of stock exchange employes

Although brokers reported business slowed because quotations had to be obtained directly from floor members, first hour volume was 250 000 shares vs. 150,000 in the same period on Tuesday.

In the second hour trading was spasmodic with the ticker standing still at intervals.

Rails showed strength large fractions were added to N. Y. Central, C. and O., and Baltimore and Ohio. Norfolk and Western jumped about 3 points.

In over-the-counter dealings Defaulted Rail common and preferred sagged to new lows. Large blocks of Defaulted Bonds on the board changed hands at sharply lower prices

Steels continued to display a firm tone. Motors were steady along with rubbers and whiskey stocks. Schenley hit another new high on a fractional advance.

Among individual strong spots were Douglas Aircraft up more than 2 and Allied Chemical up a point. Westinghouse and Consolidated Edison were weak.

Other than rails bonds were dull and steady Curb stocks held firm.

Boy Bicyclist, 13, Hurt In Collision

Thirteen-year-old Ralph Bonanata, of 167 East Third street, suffered a broken right wrist last night when a bicycle he was riding collided with an unlighted construction barricade at Hedges street and Park avenue east.

A police report stated that the bicycle struck railroad ties which were serving as a barricade for a service station drive-way paving project The boy, treated at General hospital and released, said the light on his bicycle was burning at the time

VOTE ON WALL STREET STRIKE

Stock Exchange Proceedings Disrupted When Workers Leave Jobs.

NEW YORK —(AP)— An emergency meeting of the United Financial Employes, called in the Wall street district for the announced purpose of taking a strike vote, today threatened to delay New York Stock Exchange quotations and brought a concentration of police into the area

The Exchange quotations finally were started on schedule, but the financial tickers carried a warning that there might be delays and omissions and that transactions might not be published in sequence

Normal proceedings on the Stock Exchange floor were temporarily disrupted.

Special rules were hurriedly issued by exchange officials. They announced that the quotations bureau, from which transactions and prices are spread through the financial district and out across the country, would be closed for the time being

The Financial Employes Union is involved in a dispute with Harris Upham and company, a brokerage house which is a member of the exchange. So many exchange workers affiliated with the union took time off to attend the strike vote meeting, however, that a period of emergencies was declared

Special police lines were set up to handle the crush of union members around Oscar's restaurant, at the corner of Beaver and Williams streets

DENY GUILT IN ROBBERY CASE

2 Mansfield Men Enter Pleas of Innocent to Watch Theft Charge.

Two Mansfield men today pleaded innocent to a charge of stealing a watch from Alvin C Murray, of Ashland, and their cases were continued in municipal court until Friday Bonds were set at $3 000.

The men, Otis Green, of 246 North Adams street, and Mose L. Miller, rear 544 Daisy street, were accused by Murray of beating him and stealing a $50 pocket watch Aug. 11.

Charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, Enoch H. Southall, of 185½ West Fifth street, was fined $75 and costs in municipal court today and his license was suspended for six months.

Officers said that a car Southall was driving collided with one owned by William M. Schmitzer of 348 Oakhill street The accident occurred about 10:45 p. m yesterday The left front fender of Schmitzer's car was damaged

Fined $10 and costs on a speeding charge was Joseph Barth, of Mansfield, R D. 5.

The heat released by fission of a pound of uranium 235 is about equal to that obtainable from 6,000 barrels of fuel oil.

6,800 VETS CELEBRATING 'THEIR DAY'

Parade, Retreat, Concert in Central Park Tonight Highlight Event.

to take part in the parade and to form by divisions at 6 p. m. at designated IPs (initial points) as follows:

First division—army veterans—will form on Park avenue west between Weldon avenue and the Ohio theater under division marshal Fred Hallabrin.

Second division—navy, marine, police and fire department veterans—will form between the Ohio theater and Bowman street on Park avenue west, under division marshall Robert E. Rogers.

Third division—women veterans and service organizations—under division marshal Mary Jane Bellore, will form on Sturges avenue just off Park avenue west.

Fourth division—civic groups—will form on Marion avenue off Park avenue west under division marshal George Herring.

Mansfield's Central park was still flagless at noon, this Victory day, but Park Supt. Frank Burton promised that Old Glory would be flying before parade time tonight.

Burton said that the chain used to hoist the colors to the top of the park's flag pole was broken.

With the use of the fire department's 85-foot aerial ladder and a nimble climber from the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company, Burton promised the flag would take to the mast sometime this afternoon.

Chosen as Parade Marshals for tonight's county-wide "V-Day" celebration are Harlus R. Crichfield, left a Westinghouse worker who served in the Pacific war theater, and William M. Colby, right, city policeman who served with the Fifth Army in the European theater.

C. A. Thomas Dies In Shelby Tuesday Noon

CRESTLINE — Charles Alfred Thomas, 58, 409 West Main street, former district manager of the Marion Reserve Power company and member of the Crestline and Bucyrus ration boards, died Tuesday noon at Shelby Memorial hospital where he had been a patient for two months.

Mr. Thomas, who became manager of the Marion Reserve Power company, in 1932, resigned in 1946 because of ill health. He was appointed chairman of the Crestline ration board at the outbreak of the war and later was named to the Bucyrus board. He was a member of the gasoline panel of the board for four years and moved to the price control board when gas rationing was lifted.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church, chairman of the Civilian Defense committee, a past president of the Crestline Kiwanis club, and a member of the Chamber of Commerce, 32nd degree Masons, the Fraternal Order of Police, and had served as deputy sheriff. He also was a member of the Forms club of the Marion Reserve Power company. He was born in Cincinnati

He is survived by the widow, Alice Weber Thomas, one daughter, Phyllis Ann, at home; his mother, Mrs Adah Thomas; and a brother, Arthur, both of Indianapolis, Ind. His father and a sister, Bessie Docter, preceded him in death

Crestline services for Mr. Thomas will be held at the Orie Garverick funeral home tonight at 8.30 p. m. Friends may call prior to the services

Rev. R. L. Alderton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Crestline, will conduct final services at the Ben Meyers funeral home in Cincinnati on Thursday at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be in St Johns cemetery in Cincinnati.

MARK ELMER TROXELL

SHELBY—Mark Elmer Troxell, 65, died suddenly Tuesday following a heart attack at his home in the Brunswick apartments on West Main street.

A lifelong resident of Richland county, Mr. Troxell lived in Shelby for the past five years. He was born in Amoy. He was a retired welder and carpenter.

One daughter, Mrs. Steward Fackler, of Shelby, five sons, Harry, Chester, and Kenneth, of Shelby, Robert, attending Ohio State university, and Dale, with the army in Tokyo; one brother Harry, of Wakeman, and six grandchildren survive.

Funeral services will be held at the Dye funeral home Thursday at 2 p. m. with Rev. M. P. Paetznick, pastor of the Lutheran church in Plymouth officiating. Burial will be in the Mt Hope cemetery in Shiloh.

BUS SKIDS, HITS POLE

CINCINNATI —(AP)— A Greyhound bus skidded into an iron pole downtown yesterday during a rain injuring three persons.

MYSTERY DEATH CALLED SUICIDE

Authorities in Statement Say Divorcee Ended Life in Cistern.

print but there is now no justification for further delay.

"The history of the case is conclusive that the act of suicide on the part of Mrs. Semler was not one to be unexpected. Those acquainted with her were apprehensive that she might possibly attempt to take her life.

"There is positively no evidence to connect any one with being the cause of her death. No one for a moment would have questioned that it was a plain case of suicide had Mrs. Semler died in the bathroom where the first act in her attempt occurred.

"Therefore, if it were possible for Mrs. Semler to have bled as she did in the bathroom, then to have gone to the cistern without shedding any further blood and entered the cistern without inhaling water into her lungs, then the only reasonable conclusion is that she did so.

"Marks of the woman's hands, found on the cistern wall one and one-half feet above the water line are given as conclusive evidence that the woman entered the cistern alive and under her own power."

The marks were found on a curved portion of the cistern near the top, leading to the belief that she had changed her mind and attempted to get out after plunging in.

"No measurement was made of the amount of blood lost in the bathroom. It may have been a quart or more In the opinion of competent medical authority it would have been highly possible for her to lose as much as one and one-half quarts of blood and perhaps, even after fainting in the bathroom, to have gone to the cistern. Veins were severed but not arteries. The bleeding would have been slow and any pressure on the veins would have instantly stopped the flow of blood. So it was possible for her to have gone to the cistern without losing any blood on the route taken. She was alive after she was in the cistern because the marks of her hands are on the wall one and one-half feet above the water line. She would have to be alive to make those marks."

Actions Traced.

In conclusion, the statement traces Mrs. Semler's probable actions after her alleged decision to commit suicide.

"Her entire course in the matter was consistent with the general acts of suicides. Experts advise us that it is quite usual for those attempting suicide to attempt it in several ways, abandoning one act for another or making use of several," it asserted.

Mrs. Semler was left-handed, the report points out and her body showed two minor cuts on her right wrist, several cuts on either side of her neck, all minor Other cuts were made on the inside of both arms near the elbows, apparently in an attempt to sever arteries there.

These cuts, the report says, would not produce death for several hours and the investigators believe she abandoned hope of death from the cuts and made her way to the cistern, after the bleeding stopped temporarily Lifting the cistern top again started the bleeding and she finally died from the loss of blood after plunging into the shallow cistern, the report explains.

The statement concludes: "For the reason, therefore, that her history was such that death by suicide was highly probable, that her acts were consistent with the acts of persons who commit suicide; that they were not impossible and that no known person exists who would desire her death, at least to the extent of causing it, we conclude the cause of her death was suicide."

PILGRIMS END SESSION

SPRINGFIELD—(AP)—The Ohio Pilgrim churches ended sessions yesterday by electing the Rev. L. R. Roberts of this city superintendent and agreeing to meet here in 1947. The Rev. B. A Awe of Nelsonville was chosen assistant superintendent; the Rev. Albert M. Hood of Marion, secretary and the Rev O. E. Rutledge of Dayton, treasurer.

under an ordinance adopted in April of 1920. Mansfield then used horses and wagons for collection. Ashes weren't collected.

Since then the annual $7.20 per customer collection fee has not been changed.

Mansfield, the mayor contended should bring its rates up to "where we can meet added costs of new equipment and labor"

Recommending that council give the collection fees "some serious thought and study", he urged that a new ordinance be drawn "allowing us to render a satisfactory and competent service and put the department on a self-supporting basis."

Sweden Declares War On Rockets

STOCKHOLM —(UP)— Sweden declared an open season on unidentified rockets today as three airmen were reported killed in a head-on crash with one of the missiles.

Government authorities prepared a nationwide "rocket-hunting" program and alerted all military units air bases and radar stations to be on the lookout for the cigar-shaped "ghost bombs."

The newspaper Aftonbladet quoted "investigators" as reporting that three fliers were killed yesterday when their military reconnaissance plane crashed into a rocket near Vaggeryd, in southern Sweden. The dispatch said radio contact with the plane was broken just before the crash and that the front of the ship was "complete crushed" by the impact.

REPORT POLIO CASES

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The city health department reported today that two new cases of infantile paralysis had raised the city's total to 17 compared to 21 in a corresponding period of 1945.

Mansfield Veterans Recall Victory Day Of Year Ago

"The rumors were strong that the Russians were moving toward Mukden and that the Americans were moving up through China. Everyone was pretty excited. No one knew the war was over, but we had heard rumors that the Russians had declared war against Japan."

* * *

Japs Get Tougher.

Meanwhile, Allen said, the Japs were becoming more severe in their treatment of the prisoners.

"It seemed to make them meaner when they heard the Russians were coming. They dug gun emplacements all around the field. Excitement was really running high that day."

On Aug. 16, Allen recalled that four O.S.S. men were dropped by parachute into the camp.

"One was an American-Japanese and the other three were American-Chinese."

Allen's 1,232 days of torturous imprisonment ended when the gates of the camp were flung open by Russian front line troops on Aug. 19, 1945.

Allen is the son of Mr and Mrs. A. L. Allen, 21 Linden road.

He's In Office Chair.

"Having been unceremoniously booted from artillery to the 'chair-borne' troops, I was desperately fighting the battle of the (waist line) bulge in an office chair in Paris when Japan finally staggered and collapsed," Malcolm Hartley, News-Journal telegraph editor, recalls.

"When that announcement was flashed through the musty corridors of our French office building, several soldiers (whose names I will not mention) did the same thing as Japan. The French assisted by opening their hearts and their wine cellars," Hartley continued.

"We got the big news about mid-afternoon. Everyone rushed from the building, orders or no orders, and began a celebration which lasted until morning—at least for those with the stamina necessary for such an effort. It was a wonderful occasion which everyone enjoyed to the fullest."

He Was In India.

Representative of the armed forces in the CBI (China-Burma-India) theater is Sgt. Roland F. Hilborn of the Mansfield army recruiting station, who celebrated "Victory Day" last year at Myitkina (pronounced mish-i-naw), India.

Sgt. Hilborn, at that time, was a flight engineer on detached service with the Army Transport Command.

"I was on the ground that day," he recalled, "and was sitting around headquarters of the Army Airways Communication System when "the news" came over the radio about 8:30 in the morning.

"We didn't know how to react when it happened, because just the week before we had had several false rumors, so it was the second time for us.

"About a half-hour later the first reports were confirmed by some general in our theater over the radio, and we were told we could go to the PX (post exchange) and pick up a half-case of beer apiece Then we all shot off flare pistols, 45s, and M-1 rifles.

"A big uproar is what it was, with everybody wondering how soon we were going home. They kept one man on duty for CQ (charge of quarters) and everybody else 'took off.' All routine flights which hadn't yet left were grounded.

"Of course, we were all wondering what was going on back here . . . how the people were taking it.

"It was just one big happy family . . . just a bunch of happy men that day, 'brass' and all," Sgt. Hilborn said.

From Way Off Saipan.

Ex-Sgt. John Mine, News-Journal city building reporter, was at a Saipan island B-29 base in the Pacific last year when the long-awaited victory word came through.

"Strangely enough," said Mine, "we got word that the Japs were 'out' in the same manner in which we used to be warned that they were 'in'—via the air raid siren."

"It's probably an understatement but the best way to describe our feelings then was that we felt good, way down deep, and mighty relieved."

"Celebration wasn't wild, either. A band made an impromptu tour of the island playing 'San Francisco, Here We Come' and that night the beer flowed freely," Mine continued.

"But looking out over the island that night one could still see some of the pill boxes and caves which the marines and army ground boys had to storm to make V-day possible. One couldn't help wondering for just a moment during the celebration why peace couldn't have been attained without the death of so many good Joes."

On Lake Crash Boat.

On VJ day Patrolmen Arthur Conrady, then seaman first class, US Navy, was installing motors in the Lake Michigan crash boat to which he was assigned.

"Our boat was in dry-dock at Chicago and we were overhauling her. Some of us were installing motors and others were doing various other repair jobs on the boat," Conrady said.

"When the news was announced we ran round blowing whistles on all of the boats then in yard. We were glad that it was all over and we had a feeling that at last we could look forward to getting home soon," the ex-seaman said.

Kiamy In Classroom.

When the news of the end of the war came, Ex-Cpl. Robert Kiamy, 314 Longview avenue, was sitting in a classroom in a small town near Subic Bay on Luzon.

"It was about nine o'clock in the morning," Kiamy, who was in an anti-aircraft artillery battalion, said, "and we were in a range-finding class when the boys came in with the news. They had heard it over the radio which we had been listening to for about three days.

"We went outside before anyone said a word, and even then there wasn't any noisy celebration because our guns had been taken away from us sometime before that.

"Our main thoughts were of coming home. One of the boys started running as soon as we got outside and when I asked him where he was headed, he replied 'I'm going to start packing.'

"The end of the war meant home for us, we hoped."

4,500 Rooms Still Short In City Drive

ing for the workers will be notified when the prospective tenant will call at the home for an interview. Berkey reiterated that all workers, taken from a radius of 125 miles around Mansfield, have been carefully "screened" as to desirability as citizens.

All workers are single men, most of them war veterans who were unable to find employment in their home communities.

Rooms will be filled gradually, Berkey continued. Some rooms have already been certified by the civic committee in charge of the campaign Berkey said that approximately 15 workers per day will be brought to the city at first, with the tempo increasing later.

Berkey said that room rental rates have been found to be lower than average in some districts of the city and higher in other. The average rates were $4 to $5 for a single room and $7 to $8 for a double room.

OPS Offers Land At North Lake

The Ohio Public Service company today offered to deed to the city for $1 a 20 by 600 foot strip of land at North Lake park. The land at one time served as a street car right-of-way.

Joy A. Herbert, district manager for OPS, in a letter to Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, suggested that the city use the land to extend a park ball diamond or for other extension projects.

The deed will have to be formally approved and accepted by city council, Vaughn said.

POLIO REACHES EPIDEMIC STAGE

549 New Cases Reported to U. S. Public Health Service in Nation.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A public health official said today that the onslaught of polio has reached "epidemic proportions" in some parts of the country as 549 new cases were reported to the U. S. public health service.

Dr. Carl Dauer, epidemiologist, told International News Service the incidence of infantile paralysis, as it is better known, "certainly is of epidemic proportion in certain parts of the north central states, particularly Minnesota, and certain parts of the south including the Miami area of Florida."

He said the most critical area now is the west north central states—Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakotas, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois—which is yielding more and more to the grip of the disease.

Meanwhile reports from 24 states received by the public health service showed 549 additional cases have developed during the week ending Aug. 10. This brings the known number of cases for the year to 6,102. Reports from the remaining half of the country will be made public late today and are expected to add at least several more hundred cases to the national total.

Among the 24 states which sent in their reports for the week ending Aug. 10, there are some which showed a decrease from the previous week: Ohio from 44 to 25; Arkansas from 30 to 18 and Louisiana from 20 to 17.

Increases were reported in the following states: Illinois 117 to 131; Michigan 46 to 74; South Dakota 23 to 70.

ARRESTS TOTAL 77

BUCYRUS — Arrests in the three-week-old traffic safety campaign reached 77 today with the arrest of four more operators, three of whom were fined $5 for speeding and one $2 for failing to observe a stop sign. Fined for speeding were J. W. Tall, of Bexley; Hobart Lady of Bucyrus; and Donald P. Bogan, of North Robinson. I. R. Ahlefeld, R. D. 3, Sycamore, paid the $2 fine.

THESE TWO Wisconsin youngsters, Joyce Mayo and David Waggoner, feed a young fawn they adopted which they found near death in northern Wisconsin's Vilas county. The animal was accidentally separated from its mother. "Bambi" follows the children around. (International)

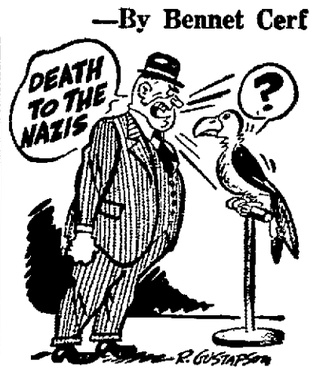
Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf



Before the Nazis overran Southern France, a doughty old peasant woman had taught her parrot to say "Death to the Nazis." A Gestapo agent heard the bird one morning and warned the old lady that the parrot would be killed, and she sent to a concentration camp if the parrot ever repeated the phrase.

The old lady sought help from the village pastor. He had a perfectly brought up parrot, he told her, and suggested swap.

The next day the Gestapo man, quivering with expectancy, glared at the bird, and grew choleric with rage when it said nothing. Finally the agent himself shouted "Death to the Nazis." The parrot answered softly, "May heaven answer your prayers, my son."

Police Solve Bicycle Theft; Boy, 15, Placed On Probation

Another of this year's 51 bicycle thefts in Mansfield was solved today and a 15-year-old Ashland boy was on probation to his father for six years.

But the theft had an unusual set of circumstances.

The Ashland boy came to Mansfield not only to sell his own bicycle, but, apparently, to steal a "fresh," new one.

At least that's what happened. And the Mansfield boy whose bicycle was stolen actually helped the 15-year-old Ashland lad complete his two-way transaction!

Dick Gaff, of 233 Lexington avenue, told police that he was questioned by the Ashland boy as to the best place to sell a bicycle in Mansfield. The Ashland youth had one with him and wanted to sell it.

Gaff gave him directions to a second-hand store here and then went into a downtown drug store. When he came out, his new bicycle was gone.

Police yesterday recovered it in Ashland It had been decked out with a motor and a speedometer by the Ashland boy.

Given a suspended sentence in the Boys' Industrial school and placed on probation to his father until he is 21 years old, the boy was also ordered to pay for damage to the Gaff bicycle.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14, 1946.

As Our War Veterans March Again

THEY MARCH again tonight. For four years they marched in jungles, across deserts. They crawled up mountain cliffs and over masses of ice. Tonight they march smartly down the streets of their home town with flags flying and a cheer in the heart of every friend.

This is their first anniversary of peace and victory. They are the men who fought the war of bullets, bombs, wings, communication and supply.

Mansfield congratulates these veterans of World War II, but it is watching them in a much deeper sense than in lining the streets for an evening parade and retreat ceremony. Mansfield is watching keenly their march back into the ranks of civilian life. It is watching them change from men with military memories to men with civilian plans and hopes.

How do these men adjust to their families? How do they adjust to their jobs? How well do they assume civic responsibility? Do any of them think that the need for unselfishness is over because they gave an extraordinary measure of devotion to their country and their fellow citizens for several important years out of their lives? Are they interested in making the democracy work which their sacrifice saved?

Happily, after one year, most of these questions get a favorable answer from the watchers. But the watching will continue. The veterans of World War II are a large unit of the community. They are affiliated formally with several organizations. But in their memories and their hopes they are informally welded into one group. They can contribute largely to community growth or they can let things slide.

They march again tonight. And we believe they are marching toward a broader, finer civilian and community life.

'Free Enterprise' and Meat Prices

OBJECTION by spokesmen for the American Meat Institute to restoration of price ceilings on livestock is quite understandable, as is also the appeal of consumer groups that ceilings be resumed.

It is undoubtedly the drastic step-up of wholesale and retail meat prices immediately after removal of controls, with quick inflow of withheld supplies, that influences the consumer attitude—for meat prices have now jumped to an almost prohibitive point for low income families.

If this is an example of the intent of proponents of decontrol it would then appear that some form of control of avaricious tendencies had best be continued indefinitely, however attractive the theory of "free enterprise" may be made to appear.

"Free enterprise," if it is to be accepted as a basis for production and exchange of all commodities, must assume honesty and fair dealing on the part of all persons concerned, with a reasonable—not exorbitant—profit for producers, processers and retailers.

An ominous note was sounded by a spokesman for railroad labor unions at the decontrol board hearing. He said: "If the government fails to control food prices in this emergency it is doubtful if anyone will be able to prevent wildcat strikes in protest."

Purpose of the recent wave of paralyzing strikes was to enforce wage demands deemed justified by increases in living costs. Further increases in living costs have eaten up the wage boosts. Now what?

Those 'Blinker' Traffic Lights

SINCE the fatal crash at the West Fourth-Penn avenue intersection Sunday morning there has been considerable discussion about the kind of traffic light at that corner, with some persons inclined to believe that the "blinker" device in the change from green to red is confusing to motorists who are unfamiliar with that type of signal.

One motorist says: "Personally I think the 'blinker' type of traffic signal anything but safe. Those who are accustomed to it are tempted to go through while it is blinking and do not always guess correctly as to the number of blinks left. I know that drivers are not supposed to go through while the blinkers are working, but if it changed to red and stayed there, there would be no trying to beat the green light on the other side of the signal. An out of town motorist, who was at the scene of Sunday's accident, stood and watched the traffic light for some time, then remarked: 'That's the queerest traffic signal I ever saw. How do drivers know when to go and when to stop?' "

It would appear, from the viewpoint of motorists accustomed to the "blinker" signals in use at a number of Mansfield's residential street intersections, that ample warning to stop is given—but the matter merits study by traffic authorities and city officials.

Another Boost In Auto Prices

DETERMINATION of what effect the return of competition in the automotive field will have on prices must await a better balancing of supply and demand than is likely to come about within the next year.

Meanwhile the revived OPA has sanctioned another average increase of 7.3 per cent on automobile prices—making a total increase of 22.3 per cent over the 1942 prices . . . with another 5 per cent boost in the offing.

Thus far the relatively few new cars produced have been grabbed up by eager buyers, practically regardless of make or price—but as the top layer of buyers with high incomes and substantial surpluses is drained off it may be wondered what attitude will be taken by motorists in the lower income brackets who have been looking forward hopefully to buying a new car but who now feel that even the so-called "low price cars" are priced above their financial means.

Any lingering idea that substantial wage increases could be put into effect in the automotive industry—or any other—without commensurate price increases, is dissipated by actual experience. It now remains to adjust all incomes to higher costs of commodities, else standards of living must be revised downward by a considerable segment of the American people.

The bombing of Britain did something for the archaeologists, at least. It unearthed a lot of Roman ruins they didn't know they had.

Claude Callan admits that "experience is a good teacher but thinks she sometimes "thrashes too hard."

It seems that the salutation on a party line telephone is "Hello, everybody."

Austria Lost Greatly as Result Of Pauley's Blunder at Potsdam

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson today reveals more about Russo-American friction in Austria.)

By DREW PEARSON

VIENNA—(By Wireless)—Harold Ickes did the U. S. Navy a great favor when he blocked the ebullient Ed Pauley from becoming undersecretary of the navy but, unfortunately, Ickes wasn't able to bar Pauley from other fields of endeavor.

You don't realize how grateful the American public should be to Ickes until you've witnessed Pauley's work elsewhere.

All over Europe other Americans are now trying to pick up and put together the broken pieces resulting from Pauley's clumsiness.

Here in Austria you see the results of one of his worst blunders.

When any good business firm signs a contract it first brings in expert lawyers to scrutinize that contract from every possible angle. But when the United States signed the contract on German reparations, influencing whether American boys will fight again, we brought in a political pal of Harry Truman's, skilled in button-holing delegates at the Chicago Democratic convention. At Potsdam, Pal Pauley okayed the reparations agreement giving the Russians the right to take German property in various areas—but he forgot to define German property.

In Austria today, Gen. Mark Clark is now trying to atone for that omission. For instance, when Hitler seized Jewish property that property officially became German and now, under Pauley's slipshod agreement, the Russians are carting off Jewish property claiming it is German. Apparently they think the Jews didn't suffer enough.

How Clark Foiled Russians.

Another thing Pauley forgot was that in 1938 when Hitler took over Austria he nationalized all Austrian industry. It therefore became officially German and under Pauley's reparation rules it can be seized by the Russians who are wasting no time in seizing it, despite the fact that, actually, it is 100 per cent Austrian.

All this has contributed to the head-on clash between Russian and American forces in Austria—a clash which is the most significant in Europe and which may set a pattern for future U. S.-Russian policy.

General Clark, who did his best to cooperate with Moscow at first, has now about-faced his original "after you, Alphonse" attitude and is opposing every unauthorized or unfair move the Russians make.

When the Red army started to take over Austrian industry General Clark angrily chewed out the Austrian government to pass a law nationalizing all of the nation's industry under the Austrian government itself. This really put the Russians on the spot for according to the tenets of Communism, industry should be nationalized. Thus, while trying to smother Communism in Austria the Russians were in the position of going directly counter to Communism.

By wanting Austrian industry for themselves the Russians even had the gall to demand that the Austrian parliament be overruled by the Allied armies of occupation. It was at this point that Clark made as neat a use of the famous veto as Comrade Molotoff ever anything, neater.

The American commander had persuaded the Allied council to adopt a rule that any act of the Austrian parliament shall become law if, after 31 days, the Allied council does not overrule it. Therefore all Clark has to do is sit back, exercise his veto for 31 days, and presto, the Russians and the Austrian industry then becomes law and the Reds can't seize it.

Vienna Praises Clark.

With the Soviet drive on to take over Austrian industry, Clark phoned Secretary of State Byrnes and got his o. k. on a plan to return to Austria the factories in the American zone. The declaration of Moscow specifies that Austria was dragged into the war by Hitler and is to be built up after the war. So Byrnes agreed that the factories should be returned to Austria.

Amid paeans of praise from the Vienna press, therefore, and with thousands of people watching, Clark held an impressive ceremony at the Hermann Goering works and handed it back to Austria. Naturally this raised U. S. prestige sky-high and made the Russians and their seizure policy look very sick indeed.

Meanwhile, the Russians have been frantically trying to promote Communism in their zone—the wealthiest and largest of all Allied occupied areas.

The only real progress they have made is through the policy of hiring Austrian workers in Russian-managed factories at a much higher wage level than is paid in other Allied areas. In addition—and in a country which is starving, this is all-important—Russian employes get 5 000 food calories per day as against 1,300 for workers in the rest of Austria. Naturally, therefore, Austrian workmen flock to Russian factories whenever they can.

What the Austrian workers don't know is that their extra wages come out of the Austrian treasury and that their food comes, in part, from the United States. What happens is that the Russians collect extra occupation costs from the Austrian government and use the money to pay off their factory workers. Also, the Russians get an extra food ration from American sources thanks to the stupidity of UNRRA and our French and British allies.

Played Into Reds' Hands.

Here is the inside story of how this happens: last winter, General Clark had been feeding the Austrians in the American zone their full calory ration but the French were falling behind and wanted UNRRA to relieve them of the burden. Also, the British, though having considerable food on hand proposed selling it to UNRRA and letting UNRRA distribute it in the British zone. This meant, of course, that Uncle Sam would pay 70 per cent of the cost since 70 per cent of UNRRA's cost is borne by the United States.

All of this played right into the Russian hands, as Austria's richest farm lands are in their zone. The Reds should have sent food into other areas. Instead, they were using it to feed the Red army and when UNRRA took over all feeding, the Russians simply had a field day. This was duck soup for them. They not only pulled a certain amount of food away from the other occupied zones through UNRRA's unique distribution policy but they sent tons of food back to Russia.

The result was that before June 1, UNRRA found its food supplies siphoned off and the entire country outside the Russian zone, was on the verge of starvation.

General Clark finally had to come through with 18,000 tons of American food to save Austria from chaos. He is now demanding that UNRRA straighten out its distribution and penalize the Russians for shipping food out of Austria.

These are some of the problems in that part of Europe where Democracy meets the frontier of Balkan dictatorships and where the most important test of Soviet expansion is being staged.

Austria, prior to seizure by Hitler, had developed a pretty good parliamentary system and the Austrians know how to govern themselves. They did not jump from czars to soviets—both dictatorships as did the Russians, and today there is no country in Europe where the Russians are less popular.

In last winter's Austrian elections the red-faced Soviets found themselves polling just 5 per cent of the vote. The situation since then hasn't changed. In other words, a country which had some experience in pre-war democracy and which is given half a chance to support itself isn't going to rush pell-mell into the arms of Soviet Russia.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, August 14, 1926.

Mrs. Walter W. Webb and Mrs. Russell R. Maxwell, of Mansfield, were injured in auto accident near Marion.

Nine family reunions were held at North Lake park, despite rain.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Rinehart, 13 Gettings Place.

Several of the 1926 street improvement jobs were nearing completion, including Summit and Willow streets, Parkway Drive and Homeman boulevard.

A. J. Burkhardt moved from South Adams street to 239 East Arch street.

Claude M. Hunter and Mrs. Mae Bender were married in Main street Evangelical church by Rev. W. Elmer Bailey.

Miss Mary Eggert removed millinery shop to new Roth building on Park avenue west.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On Aug. 14, 1840, the steam packet, "Britannia" completed the crossing from Halifax, Nova Scotia, to Ireland. The trip took ten days and established a record.

Dave Boone Says:

I SEE where Ed Stettinius has recovered sufficiently from the experience of being a dollar-a-year man, a secretary of state and a delegate to U. N. to take a really nice job.

* * *

He has become rector of the University of Virginia. Ed ain't joining the ministry. Being rector there is like being a college president. It puts these southern universities away out ahead of the northern ones in good looks.

* * *

Mr. Stettinius is an old Culpeper county boy and is going back there. He will hold a job first held by another secretary of state, Thomas Jefferson.

* * *

Ed was too handsome to stay in politics anyhow. All the other politicians knew how ugly they looked in the newsreels by comparison, and that neither the Democratic or Republican election results could do much about a thing like that.

* * *

All the time he was in U. N. the cause of peace was slowed up because the other delegates were running around trying hair tonics, electric shavers and new shaving creams.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

World War Veterans Out-Campaign Bosses.

ATHENS, Tenn.—Barely 48 hours had passed since the last rifle crack had ceased echoing along the tree-shaded streets of this century-old Tennessee town. Still there was no authorized law.

First by ballots and then by bullets, the old guard had been put to frantic flight. The new guard had not yet been legally tagged to take over the law-and-order task.

Yet on that sulury Sunday morning, the hills of Athens breathed deeply and relievedly of peace. Parents walked their children to church right past the blood-stained, slug-pocked McMinn county jail.

During previous years, they had detoured a block—just as citizens of another country once avoided gestapo headquarters.

And in the ivy-covered churches that morning, ministers of Athens said in grateful prayer: "We thank Thee, O Lord, for delivering us at last from the hands of persecution . . ."

The muted chorus of "amens" at the conclusion of that prayer came not only from within the church buildings, but also from throughout the city of some 10,000 citizens.

Down at the "non-partisan headquarters," weary veterans of World War II had won their home-front election battle only by the last resort method of meeting violence with violence, kept answering the phone and wishing the guys on the other end of the line could see the aforementioned picture of peace and gratitude.

"I hope we haven't started something, Bac," said big Jim Buttram, grocer's son and one-time rifleman in the 60th infantry of the famed Ninth division. "Those guys don't seem to realize that we won the election legally in the first place, and did everything legally until they started shooting and clubbing voters and then stole the ballot boxes right out from under our noses."

Buttram, campaign manager for the GI's victorious non-partisan ticket, was receiving gleeful long-distance congratulations from vets across the country and he didn't like the undertones.

"If they only could be here and know the whole story," he said, "they'd realize this is no precedent for violence—from veterans or anybody else—at the polls."

In that respect, Jim was right. The Athens battle of the barricades has caught the nation's fancy and started political and social trembling throughout Tennessee and the nation—but it's doubtful if the situation here could be duplicated anywhere in the land.

And unless it can be duplicated elsewhere, it can scarcely be termed a veteran's call-to-arms.

Neither can it justly become a football for racial and religious prejudice controversies. McMinn county's whites are almost all Protestant and Anglo-Saxon, and of the more than two-score persons injured election day, only one was a Negro. There simply was no racial or religious issue involved.

Nor can the finger of "isms," radicals, labor or anti-labor influences, or career politicians—unless the GI's themselves make politics their career from now on—be found in the fight.

It simply was what it seemed to be. A long-suffering city and county got sick of turning the other cheek to continued graft, violence and the loss of civil liberties.

Slow to arouse, they first swallowed their prirde and appealed to every possible state and federal agency—and that's a story in itself that should make Washington blush for shame.

Still they writhed inactive, without leaders—until their boys came home.

Then they had leaders who not only out-campaigned the machine, but who also (when it became necessary to fight for the ballot boxes) showed that shooting is not so much fun when the other guy gets his gun, too.

Even then, the veterans kept their heads—actually, laughingly, firing mostly "for effect"—and when the erstwhile toughs started screaming for mercy, not one single soul had been slain.

Isolationists Become Negligible Minority.

WASHINGTON—A vague pattern begins to emerge from the congressional primaries now nearly completed.

While it reveals the state of mind of the country still somewhat confused, which is only natural following a war, it yet shows some interesting trends, relating both to international and domestic policy.

Most definite is the indication that, by and large, the people have accepted the nation's new role of world leadership.

There have been two significant tests where the issue was clearly drawn. They resulted in defeat of two of the diehard isolationists in the senate, Shipstead (R., Minn.), and Wheeler (D., Mont.), both veterans of a quarter of a century service to the people of their states.

While some former isolationists in the house, particularly among Republicans, have been renominated, the issue was not greatly dramatized in house contests, being overshadowed by other issues.

It seems certain that isolationism has disappeared as a national political issue.

This result is a tribute to the energetic spadework and leadership of President Roosevelt and to the subsequent effective leadership of President Truman. The strategy in the case of President Roosevelt was to bring the senate into line by careful advance missionary work largely done by former Secretary of State Cordell Hull, and to bolster this by education among the people.

The strategy of Mr. Truman was to push the various measures of international co-operation as rapidly as possible through the senate in some cases, and the whole congress in others, while the nation still was close enough to the war to be deeply concerned in joining with others to forestall another such catastrophe.

Congress, on its part, rose to its responsibilities to assert its own share of leadership and, as the elections have proved, properly diagnosed the state of the mind of the people.

As far as domestic issues are concerned, the picture as given by the congressional primaries is none too clear. This is demonstrated by the fact that neither side is yet confident about what is likely to happen in November when it will be Democrats against Republicans.

Uncertainty among the people is indicated by the success of present incumbents in so many cases. But where there have been upsets they have been significant. This applies chiefly to the Democratic party.

President Truman's personal success in eliminating a Democratic foe of his domestic program in his own state, and a powerfully placed one because of Rep. Slaughter's seat on the house rules committee, serves as a symbol of an interesting trend. This is the strengthening of the president in his own party.

Outside the south, the president's supporters have won renomination. This trend indicates that the issue can be drawn more clearly in November. Republicans are translating this for their own purposes in propaganda by stressing the success of what they call "Leftists" in ousting veteran Democrats. The CIO, in its propaganda, twists it the other way by boasting of the defeat of a number of "reactionaries" within the party.

"Fantastic" Idea Could Become Actuality.

WASHINGTON—In every session a certain number of screwball bills get dumped into the congressional hopper. These are often measures put in as a gesture to pacify some organization or pressure group, with no expectation that they will ever be seriously considered.

At first glance, a proposal that died with the 79th congress has the look of a bit of whimsy. But in the fantastic time in which we are living, this proposal may before too long come to seem merely elementary common sense.

The resolution introduced by Representative James W. Trimble of Arkansas provided for a government of the United States in the event an atomic bomb should land squarely on Washington and wipe out the president, vice president, all the members of the cabinet, the entire congress and the supreme court.

The resolution proposed a constitutional amendment to be ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states.

Under the proposed amendment, if the government in Washington were wiped out, the first step would be for the top officers of the army, navy and air forces to choose "a civilian to act as interim president."

This is on the assumption, of course, that the commanders of the three services would survive and be in active command of forces in the field.

The interim president is to call a meeting of the governors of all the states. The governors will then select by a majority vote one of their number to act as president, and one to act as vice president.

Those selected by the governors shall immediately take office and serve for the uncompleted portion of the terms for which the last elected president and vice president were elected, respectively, at the site selected by a majority of the governors."

You will be able to pick it up on your television set—unless, of course, the radioactive effect of the bomb has knocked out all television and radio.

The governor of Illinois is being sworn in as president of the United States in a deep underground shelter at the capital in Springfield, which, until the war ends in victory and Washington can be restored, will be the capital of the United States.

As seen on the television screen, the faces of the newly chosen leaders of the country are tense and drawn. The words they speak are measured and solemn. This is the first time that a foreign enemy has carried war to the shores of the United States.

And it is war, says the new president, of a more awful kind than the world has ever known: war that will mean further fearful sacrifices from the American people.

A hot weather fantasy? Yes—but if the atomic armament race goes on, it can become reality.

Congressman Trimble says he was reading the constitution one night when it occurred to him that no provision is made for another government in the event of the destruction of all the chief officers of the existing federal government.

The framers of the constitution could hardly have been expected to foresee the age of mass death. They lived in a simple time when warfare was a matter of individual killing individual on a chosen field of battle. Towns were sacked, but only incidentally and not as a calculated part of strategy.

Anyone who thinks Congressman Trimble is dreaming up unnecessary trouble should consider the sober fact that a committee on underground sites named by the army-navy munitions board is now surveying natural caves and man-made caverns, such as mines, in order to find those adaptable for "vital industrial production and other military purposes."

Farmer's Diary: "About Salt and Fog."

MANY farmers know that their animals must have iodine in the ration, to grow hair and wool and maintain healthy growth. They buy iodized salt in big blocks for the pasture, and sheep sheds . . . but regarding their own and their children's needs, they are sometimes less thoughtful.

Ohio is in that part of the Great Lakes region that is deficient in natural iodine in the soil. In order to avoid goiter and symptoms ranging from lusterless hair to cretinism, all of us should be sure to include foods containing iodine in our diet.

Such foods are those from the sea—where the iodine has been washing in off the land since the time of creation. The use of iodized salt in cooking and for the table has been a boon that has caused great improvement in the "goiter belt."

The more a person studies the soil and its relation to health, the more important NUTRITION becomes, as an influence upon men and nations.

SPECULATING about how thick fog may get, the Bulletin of Lake Carriers' Association, says it's always pretty thin, even at its worst. Even when you'd think it was solid enough to almost float a vessel, there is really less than a gallon of water in all the fog it would take to cover the deck of a vessel to the height of a man.

Each fog particle is so small that the empty space between them is 30,000 times greater than their own volume . . . which is why you can breathe, and do not drown, in fog. Also it is why mosquitoes may swarm through an impenetrable fog, to pester unsuspecting sailors.

The air carries millions of microscopic solid particles . . . pollen dust, smoke, and also a burden of invisible moisture. When moisture condenses upon these tiny solid particles, the fog results—sometimes very quickly, especially if there is no wind and no overcast sky.

Very often a fog will hang along a river valley; dense ribbons festoon our Honey Creek area every morning—while the tops of nearby hills are sunny islands of green. Little by little the sun's radiation dispels the moisture and makes it again invisible.

SOCIETY

OBLIGATION SERVICE HELD TUESDAY EVENING

Daughters of Isabella, Joan of Arc Circle No. 380 Has Service for New Members In Bird Building.

Four women of the city were obligated as members in the Daughters of Isabella, Joan of Arc circle No. 380 last evening when the organization met in the club rooms of the Bird building for a regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Thomas J. Creamer, regent, conducted the business session at which time the following were obligated: Mrs. Catherine Basting, Miss Louise Massa, Miss Esther Cappadonna and Mrs. Justine Dropsey.

Tentative plans were made for the initiation to be held Nov. 10, the details of which will be announced later.

The evening prize which is awarded at each meeting was won by Mrs. James Herlihy.

The next meeting will be a covered dish dinner to be held in the North Lake park pavilion on Aug. 27. Miss Mary Rizzo and her committee will be in charge of the affair.

Mansfielders To Reside In Shelby Following Trip

Following a wedding trip through the New England states, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos W. Pittenger, who were married on Aug. 3, will make their home in Shelby.

The couple was married in a double ring ceremony at the Oakland Lutheran church at 2 p. m. Aug. 3. Rev. Henry Boehn officiated.

Mrs. Pittenger, who is the former Eileen Cox Weber, daughter of Mrs. Mary Cox, Mansfield R. D. 1, chose a pale pink street length dress with white accessories for her wedding. She wore an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Pittenger, sister of the bride and brother of the groom, attended the couple.

A reception was held at Smith's Supper club following the ceremony. Mrs. Blake Palm, Miss Mary Naomi Pittenger, and Mrs. Roger Kerr, aunt of the groom, poured.

Mrs. Pittenger is a graduate of Madison high school and has been employed in the office of the Harrington Manufacturing company. Mr. Pittenger, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Pittenger, Mansfield R. D. 2, is a veteran of three and a half years in Panama and is employed at the Harrington company.

Auxiliary Plans August Picnic

Plans for a picnic to be held Aug. 27 were made at a meeting of the Delano auxiliary No. 6, at the lodge hall Tuesday night.

The picnic will be a 6:30 affair at Johns park with Mrs. Mary Summers as chairman. Mrs. Nicolaus Blocher, president, was in charge of the meeting last night.

Contest prize winners were Mrs. Louis Christy, Mrs. Robert Aumend, Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, and Miss Lillian Webber. The next regular meeting will be at the lodge hall on Sept. 10.

PICNIC TONIGHT.

The annual Rainbow Girls' Pa-Me-Me picnic will be held at 6:30 p. m. tonight at North Lake park.

Civic Club To Hold Lawn Fete Aug. 21

The women of the South Boulevards Civic club will sponsor a lawn fete to open Aug. 21, at 5 p. m. in the village at the corner of Sunset boulevard and Beechwood drive. In the event of bad weather the affair will be held the next day.

Proceeds will be used to furnish and equip the new community center.

Mr. and Mrs. David Constance, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lybarger, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Swisher, Mr. and Mrs. Mayward Baith, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Bricker, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Au, Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Roberts, Vernon Newlon, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Elder, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paulsen and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horn are on the committee.

Mrs. Marvicson Entertains Club

Mrs. Michael Marvicson was hostess for a meeting of the Knotty club at her home Tuesday night.

Three guests, Mrs. William Izeman, Mrs. Lena Zivkof and Miss Marjorie Sheehee, were present. Mrs. Homer Roberts was welcomed into the group as a new member.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Orthan Warrick and Mrs. Roberts.

The next meeting of the club will be on Sept. 10 at the home of Mrs. Harry Swimly, McPherson street.

Marriage Vows To Be Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Britton, Burger avenue, are announcing the approaching marriage of their daughter, Jean Cicolani, to Donald J. Penny, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Penny, Sheridan avenue.

Rev. Charles F. Sheriff will officiate at the double ring, closed service which will be held on Aug. 30 in St. Matthews Lutheran church.

As attendants the bride-to-be has chosen Mrs. C. O. Penny as matron-of-honor and Mrs. R. E. Weltmer as bridesmaid.

Mrs. Cicolani attended Mansfield Senior high school and was formerly employed at the Westinghouse Manufacturing company. Mr. Penny is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high and is employed at the Harrington Manufacturing company.

Church District Has Picnic Dinner

The Fourth district of the First Lutheran church met Tuesday noon at the home of Mrs. Sam Miller, Scholl road, with Mrs. Frank Stoughton as associate hostess.

A picnic dinner was enjoyed preceding a business meeting conducted by Mrs. Floyd Culp, president, at which time a Fall rummage sale was discussed.

Mrs. W. E. Hess was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. J. F. Gerhart, Augustine avenue, will be hostess at the next regular meeting of the district to be held on Sept. 10.

Sorority Plans Rush Parties At Regular Meeting

Plans for rush parties were discussed at the regular meeting of the Ohio Upsilon chapter of Nu Phi Mu, Unit 1, Monday night at the Southern hotel.

The business meeting was presided over by the president, Miss Dorothy June, and communications from the sorority's national office concerning rushing season were read.

Sorority pins were presented to the Misses Marian Davis, Betty Wily, and Gloria Ann Tucker. A report on the sale of gardenias at the airport dedication was given by Miss Miriam Crowe.

It was announced that the three units of Nu Phi Mu will have an open formal dance in October. The next regular meeting of Unit 1 will be on August 26 at the hotel.

Shower Honors English Bride

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McMahon, R. D. 6, entertained at a miscellaneous shower last evening at their home in honor of the English bride of their son, Francis J. McMahon.

The bride, the former Miss Patricia McCown, daughter of Daniel McCown of Liverpool, England, arrived in the United States in July. The formal marriage ceremony of the couple was performed on Jan. 19, 1946, in Liverpool, England.

Out-of-town guest at the party was Mrs. Jay Miller of Philadelphia, Pa.; and prizes of the evening were won by Mrs. Paul Kurtz, Mrs. Fred Patterson, Mrs. Garnet Pace and Mrs. Miller.

The bride and groom are now living at the home of the groom's parents.

Shower Honors Miss Jackson

Miss Marianne Jackson, bride-elect of John Wilmes, was honored recently at a pre-nuptial shower given by Mrs. William P. Smith, jr., of Columbus, at her parents' home, 24 Glenbeck lane.

Twelve guests attended the shower and presented Miss Jackson with miscellaneous gifts. Bridge winners for the evening were Miss Janice McCartney, Mrs. Charles Farry, and Mrs. Wilbur Upson.

Miss Jackson and Mr. Wilmes will be united in marriage in an open church ceremony on August 29 at 9:30 a. m. at the St. Peter's Catholic church.

HARTFORD CIRCLE.

The Hartford circle of the United Brethren church held a picnic at South park Tuesday night. Ten members and two guests, Miss Jane McBride and Miss Gladys Indorf, were present. The next meeting will be a poke lunch on September 10 at the home of Miss Miriam Johnson, South Mulberry street. Miss Mildred Strome will be in charge of devotions.

AUXILIARY HAS DINNER.

Fifteen members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Firemen's local held a chicken dinner at North Lake park Tuesday night. Games and contests were played during the evening and prizes won by Mrs. Louis Wiparine and Mrs. Carl Maul. Mrs. Harold George conducted the business meeting. The next meeting will be on Sept. 10 at the home of Mrs. Leo Saltzgaber, Maple street.

Sagging Facial Tissues

By MME. QUI VIVE

Every woman, whatever her age or condition of living, wants to look fit. She desires to appear healthy, vibrant, alive. When a woman observes that the tissues of her face are softening, that wrinkles are appearing, she feels rebellious against the hand of fate, or whatever it is that robs her of youthful bloom. Why must such things be.

It is no consolation to her that she has played a part in the wrecking of her portrait. She has not lived wisely, or she has not lived bravely. With perfect health of body, mind and spirit, the feminine face should remain fairly smooth until old age approaches.

Malnutrition will cause wrinkles, because tissue cells do not receive the necessary groceries. Let the finicky eater beware; she must have all the food elements—including mineral salts and vitamins—that are needed for well-being. Loss of sleep, continued for any length of time, is a detriment; the fibers have no chance to rebuild. Lack of exercise and fresh air may be at the root of the trouble, because not enough oxygen is pumped into the lungs to keep the circulatory system active.

Worries that agitate the soul put their marks upon the face.

Discontent will remove the resiliency from muscular tissues, cause it to crumple and sag as surely as rotten rubber will destroy the life of a band of elastic.

The first need in overcoming the early signs of facial dissolution, is to organize one's life, creating a plan for mental and physical health, following it to the letter. Be determined to keep cheerful and courageous. Vow that unpleasant events won't down you, get their ugly heels on your neck.

Get out of doors as much as you can. There is strength and happiness to be found in fresh air, sunshine and healthy play. Drink plenty of water. Bathe daily. Do deep breathing exercises before you go to sleep; you will rest better.

Every night, wash your face with warm water and a bland soap. Rinse with tepid water, dry, and apply a heavy massage cream, one of a consistency that will not permit the fingers to slip and slide.

Start at the collar bones, working upward with flattened fingers. Do little circles over the forehead. Place the first finger on the eyelid, close to the nose, sweep to the temple, come back under the eye. Thn slap and pat briskly.

In the morning, lave with cold water, dry, and apply an astringent.

Newlyweds Are Residing Here After Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton, who were married on July 28, are residing at 510 North Mulberry street, after returning from a wedding trip through Canada and New York state.

Mrs. Hamilton is the former Miss Ruth Eleanor Spore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Spore of Bucyrus. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, 63 Wood street, are the parents of Mr. Hamilton.

The couple was married at the First Evangelical church in Bucyrus at 4 p. m. July 28. Rev. J. Paul Jones performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

Miss Florence Zuelske and John Hilson attended the couple. Mrs. Hamilton was attired in a grey wool suit with blue accessories and wore a pink rosebud corsage.

The former Miss Spore graduated from the Holmes-Liberty high school and the Western Union Telegraph training school. She has been employed at the telegraph office here. Mr. Hamilton graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and served in the navy in the African and Pacific theaters. He is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Etzwiler - Urban Rites Performed In California

Lutheran Mission "Chapel of the Pines" in Oceanside, Calif., was the scene of the wedding of Miss Donna Etzwiler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Etzwiler, Trimble road, and Pfc. Ernest Urban, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Urban, 293 Cline avenue.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at 2 p. m. August 3 by Rev. Ralph Claus of Encinitas, Calif. The chapel organist, Mrs. Maude Rouse, played the nuptial music.

The bride was attired in a mint green suit with brown accessories and carried a bouquet of pink talisman roses. She was attended by Miss Mary Lou Nolan, with whom she is making her home at the present.

Best man for Pfc. Urban was Cpl. Streeter King of Gonzales, Tex., who is stationed with the groom in the Marine quartermaster department at Camp Pendleton.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Nolan home. The couple took a short wedding trip through Southern California.

New York Notes

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

BROADWAY Bulletin Board: Arline Judge and her newest groom, Morgan Ryan, have their intimates worried . . . Marianne O'Brien, who became the bride of multi-millionaire Dick Reynolds the other day, received a 10-karat pear-shaped diamond ring from her husband on their wedding morning. Her wedding ring, though, is a plain old-fashioned gold one . . . The piece goods business is laughing at a black marketeer who had nearly $200,000 cached in a safe in his Long Island home. Burglars lifted it last week, and he doesn't dare call the police . . . Washington hears that "ill health" will force the resignation of a U. S. supreme court justice . . . Betty Price has given Joe DiMaggio the chilly shoulder. Her new interest is a member of the Gimbel clan . . . Gil Lamb's comedy routine at the Paramount is burning M-G-M and the Van Johnson fans . . . Publisher Henry Luce is ailing. Doctors have ordered him into seclusion for six weeks.

Geraldine DuBois of the Latin Quarter is getting long distance calls from crooner Dick Smart of the pineapple millions . . . They say Gene Tierney asked for so much money to play "Amber" that Zanuck tore three polo mallets into toothpicks . . . The Edward Chorodovs (he's the playwright, she's actress Gwen Anderson) are lullabying a seven-pound girl.

* * *

Boston politicos are giving odds that Mayor Curley never serves his sentence . . . One of the most famous beauties of the old Hollywood restaurant is now a honky-tonk strip teaser at Coney Island . . . The Louis Primas are arranging a parting . . . Mac Murray has auditioned to go overseas with the USO . . . Comic Jackie Gleason's estranged wife and two children have arrived in Gotham to pay him a friendly visit.

Ida Lupino and producer Ben Bogeaus (who recently decided against it with Dolore Moran) are a seemingly romantic pair . . . Tommy Corneo Stralla has $1,500,000 capital backing his venture. His backers, contrary to popular belief, represent Las Vegas money . . . Stewart Chaney, the scenic designer, is slated to leave the hospital in a fortnight . . . Vice Adm. Bell Glassford, who is detaching himself from Mrs. G. via an Arizona divorce, is paying court to Henrietta Sherwood a Southern lass . . . The Luther Davises (he's scripting the celluloid version of "The Hucksters") are knitting tiny garments for their second arrival . . . Movie biggie Spyros Skouras is angling for the ambasador's portfolio to his native Greece. Intimates aver he's prepared to spend a million to get the spot . . . Harry Richman's wife now writes most of his songs.

A recent Hollywood elopement is said to have been as much of a surprise to the bridegroom as it was to the general public and the gal he really cared for. It seems she quarreled with him—so he swallowed five fast martinis and proposed to the first girl he met at a party. The screenland legend is that when he awoke the next morning his first words to the bride were: "What are you doing here?" . . . Desi Arnaz is making the Saratoga track happy . . . The Dean Martens (he's the singer) have Reno in the bean-o . . . Mrs. Doodles Weaver is seriously ill . . . Morton Downey has purchased two buildings on 56th street, between Park and Madison . . . You don't have to believe this, but it's true: Eddie Stone, bandleader at the Glass Hat, gave his 12-year-old daughter the middle name of "Precious" . . . Franchot Tone is busy turning down offers to do Broadway plays.

Since the state department's recent lifting of the pro-Axis black list there's been a flurry of activity at the East 71st street mansion owned by Axel Wenner-Gren. Household rumors there indicate that the lush apartment in the building is being readied for the arrival of the boss from Mexico City, which would mean that Wenner-Gren's associates had succeeded in pushing that long-sought visa through the state department . . . Dick Brown, the textile heir, and Nadine Berin, the pretty blond model, eloped from Armando's the other night and tied the knot upstate . . . Huntz Hall is dating Bette Davis—a dancer, not the Warner Brothers' tragedienne . . . A movie company is embarrassed because Varga, the artist, turned down a four-figure offer and refused to draw their most glamorous star for a movie magazine. He said he didn't consider her beautiful enough to be his model.

Who Pours At Tea At Orphanage

By EMILY POST

One of the overseers of an orphanage explains, "Every so often two or three ladies from the neighboring city come to visit the home. These ladies are interested in the work we do and are regular contributors to its support. On occasion they make up a party of outsiders who are interested in our children. On these occasions we like to offer them tea. We know iced tea is served in glasses and passed around on a big tray, but will you please tell us how hot tea should be served. That is, who should pour? Should one of us or one of the visiting ladies be asked to do so? If the latter, how do we choose from among them?"

It would be best that a member of your own group pour. The one who knows best how to make good tea should be selected.

Dear Mrs. Post: When going to a concert, I found that our seats were very far back and borrowed a pair of opera glasses from a friend. While I was momentarily not using the glasses, a woman next to me asked point-blank whether she and the lady with her might look through them just for a moment to get a glimpse of the artist. I felt I had to refuse because of my responsibility in caring for them. This neighbor looked very hurt and I felt very selfish, but I'm sure you will agree that I couldn't do otherwise.

Answer: While I understand perfectly your reason for refusing, I do think letting your neighbor merely look through them for a moment couldn't possibly have hurt them. Naturally, you would have had to ask for them had they been kept any length of time.

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you suggest including candelabra on a large tea table? My dining room is very light and stays so very late because of the daylight time. However, if they are proper details of a formal tea table setting I'd like to include them.

Answer, In winter, candles always are used on the diningroom table at a big tea. In summer, it is a question of whether the drawing of shades or closing of shutters seems to you preferable to daylight

Sewing Machine Centennial

1851 . . . First commercial model of Howe machine.

1889 . . . First Singer electric sewing machine shown in operation.

1946 . . . Modern lightweight portable electric sewing machine.

(AP Newsfeatures)

IT WAS just 100 years ago, on September 10, 1846, that a poverty-stricken young machinist from Massachusetts received a patent on the first practical sewing-machine.

His name was Elias Howe, jr., and his invention was perfected after years of study, work, and repeated failures. It was in 1839, when Howe was an undersized youth of 20, that he overheard a conversation between two men and his employer in a Boston machine shop about the fortune that would come to the man who invented a sewing machine.

Previously a number of attempts had been made to invent a machine to sew cloth or leather, the first crude model having been made by an Englishman, Thomas Saint, as early as 1790, but never put to any practical use.

Later, in 1829, a poor French tailor named Barthelemy Thimonnier worked out a machine which made a chain stitch by means of a hooked needle like a crochet hook. He attempted to market his handmade wooden machine, but its manufacture was halted by the revolution of 1848.

Still another inventor, a New York Quaker named Walter Hunt, made a sewing machine about 1834, but financial difficulties and the hostility of the hand-sewers, who feared they would be put out of work, discouraged him. He sold the invention for a trifle, and it was never developed to its full commercial possibilities.

So, though others had blazed the trail before him, the invention of the first practical, commercial sewing machine, granddaddy of our modern high-speed marvels, is credited to Elias Howe.

This young man, son of a Massachusetts farmer and miller, started working in earnest on his invention about 1843, when he worked out the idea of using two threads and a shuttle to form a stitch. By October, 1844, he had constructed a crude working model, but he needed financial assistance to build an accurate model of metal.

He enlisted the aid of a former schoolmate, George Fisher, and finally produced the model on which he received a patent in 1846.

Orders for the new machine were slow in coming, however. Manufacturers feared it would throw all the hand sewers out of work. Discouraged, young Howe sent his brother, Amasa, to London with a model of the machine. Amasa sold the British rights to an English corset maker for 250 pounds, plus the offer of a job to the inventor at three pounds a week.

Returning to America after a year in England, Elias found that news of the success of the sewing machine in England had reached America, and that several manufacturers were using machines based on his model. There followed a long series of suits for patent infringement, and at last Howe was awarded his just dues, founded the Howe Sewing Machine company and found his royalties mounting to as much as $4,000 a week.

Then another inventor entered the picture. He was Isaac M. Singer, who watched the Howe machine, with its rotary shuttle and curved needle, and decided it would be more practical to have a shuttle that went back and forth, and a straight needle.

He perfected his improved version of the sewing machine and fought fiercely Howe's suits for patent infringement. The courts finally upheld Howe's claims, however, and Singer took out a license under the Howe patent, paying him $15,000 in back royalties.

In 1863 a corporation was formed to carry on the Singer business, and the modern machine of today is an outgrowth of that same firm, later followed by others using essentially the same principles.

Since that time some 3,000 different industrial models and about 24 household models of sewing machines have been produced. Sewing machines have been sold in practically every country of the world.

The sewing machine has been the basis of the vast garment industry, has provided a new quick way to make clothes for millions of women.

And it all began just a century ago.

Your Figure, Madame

—By Ida Jean Kain

Exercise is most popularly known as a muscle builder, which makes it unpopular because no woman cares about bulging biceps anyway. And since there is no proof that exercise adds years to life, why exercise? Because a little exercise every day makes you glad to be alive. A retired army officer says that the lack of regular exercise is probably the greatest cause of that tired feeling.

It's true that a small amount of regular exercise helps to keep the vital organs tuned up and in excellent functional condition and the muscles in tone. And with improved muscle tone the nervous system works smoothly. Then you have that million dollar feeling of well being.

All this doesn't mean you should take up weight lifting, or huff and puff through calisthenics, wearing yourself out trying to be healthy. Take it easy. But take a little exercise. A slow, steady stretch, rhythmically contracting, stretching and releasing the muscles, increases the flow of blood through the heart, veins and arteries. And easy exercise helps you to relax completely. But if there is any doubt as to whether you should take setting-up exercises, ask your doctor.

And follow the rules and do not take calisthenics within one to two hours after eating, and avoid eating within fifteen minutes after exercise. The reason is simple: in exercise the blood is drawn into the muscles and at mealtime it is needed in the stomach to digest the food.

It's exercise of the big trunk muscles that helps to keep the vital organs in tone. Ten to twelve minutes of proper exercise are a great help, and almost anyone can devote that amount of time daily. Here is a trio:

Lie flat on back on floor, knees bent, feet on floor. Pull in with the abdominal muscles and get the small of the back flat against the floor. From that position bring alternate knees toward chest, and at the same time stretch your arms up on floor overhead, and pull lazily. Repeat half a dozen times, later a dozen, but slowly and easily.

Prop your feet upon a low bench and take that same exercise from that position, then lift hips off the floor in a straight line, pulling up firmly with abdominal muscles.

If you have nothing wrong with your lower back, put the squeeze on the waistline. On back, knees bent, twist firmly at waist and lower thighs to floor at one side, then slowly twist toward the other side.

The exercises in the leaflet "Easy Does It" are designed to avoid strain. Send stamped, addressed envelope with request.

Requests, Commands, Effective

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

OFTEN in this column I have emphasized the value of requesting the child (of any age) instead of commanding him, and have pointed out that we parents are prone to shift from a request to a command when the request fails.

To make such a shift in the same situation is, of course, bad procedure, since it suggests to the child we were not sincere in making the request in the first place. Accordingly he is not likely to cooperate.

Right now I have in mind the boy or girl from about six to twelve. In routine matters, such as self-preparation for meals, tidying his own room, and sending himself to bed, a request is not practical. He should know such are regular obligations, to have essentially no exceptions.

We do well when for such matters a schedule is announced, in September, say, for a year. How absurd that the child should be commanded in each specific instance when to do these things! How more absurd to command him till he does them!

When any routine matter is to be begun or revised so as to be harder for the child, there will not be many occasions when a request will prove workable. Nearly always it will only stir up argument, wordy warfare.

A better way is to describe the problem to the child calmly in the fewest possible words, then announce the program, not asking if he would like to do it. Of course, if you are very sure he would choose to co-operate in case you put it up to him, very well.

Otherwise, state what is to be done without any suggestion of choice or doubt. Then, for you to get best results, he must have learned to obey.

"How Teach Child to Help at Home," may be had in a stamped, addressed envelope sent me in care of this paper.

But if up to now he had not learned to respect such commands, no use to make them either. The only alternative then is to offer the request with the self-assurance that it is only a request and that you are not going to be mad about it in case he doesn't accede.

Your child will be inclined to co-operate to a very high degree if always he feels, when he hears your request, that you leave it wholly to his discretion and that you are not going to show any anger, nor charge him with laziness or lack of love if he does not choose to do what you requested.

I wish many of my fellow parents would try out these suggestions. So far as I can check on myself as a parent I am convinced that they work. What has your experience been?

Washington Letter

—By Jane Eads

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—In Berlin in 1904, Carrie Chapman Catt organized the International Women's Suffrage Alliance.

The group now called International Alliance of Women Voters for Equality, Liberty and Peace, held its 11th congress at Interlaken, Switzerland.

It was the first meeting since 1939, when the congress was held at Copenhagen, Denmark.

At the 1939 gathering the Alliance recognized "the immediate danger" of the totalitarian regimes and felt it impossible, at a moment when human rights were being trampled under foot, to consider solely the rights of women.

A declaration was adopted that "The woman's battle is that of all mankind."

Women from many nations attended the Interlaken conference. From the United States went Miss Anna Lord Strauss, president of the National League of Women Voters, which is the Alliance's affiliate in this country.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization interested in seeing to it that American women take an informed participation in their government. It has 62,000 members.

Its current agenda, for example, concerns:

1. International control of atomic energy through the United Nations. Domestic control under a civilian agency.

2. Acceptance by the United States of its full share of responsibility for strengthening the United Nations.

3. Governmental economic policies aimed at preventing inflation and deflation and stimulating maximum production and employment.

It was because of this program that the League was anxious to be represented at the Alliance's first post-war congress.

Up for discussion at the congress were the following issues::

Formulation of a demand for political, legal and economic equality between men and women; problems of education; status of the housewife, combination of home and career, including men's share in the work of the home; housing and nutrition; education for citizenship; participation in national and world planning and reconstruction, interdependence of women's freedom and national freedom.

The Alliance committee, which met in Geneva in 1945, agreed to send a resolution to the United Nations asking that there be no special committee to deal with women, but that discriminations on account of sex be dealt with by the Committee on Human Rights.

During the war, Mrs. Catt made provisions for Alliance funds to be kept in trust by the League of Women Voters in the United States.

Early in 1945, Mrs. Corbett Ashby of London, Alliance president, asked Mrs. Catt, now 87, to find two women who would serve on the Alliance Board.

Mrs. Catt chose Mrs. Louis Slade and Judge Dorothy Kenyon, both of New York.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, August 15.

AN UNFORESEEN and dramatic crisis may bring a sudden transition of radical importance to the life and its expectations. This untoward situation might be attributable to some sort of erratic, tempestuous or emotional outburst, reacting upon the private, sentimental or inner life, or the affectional aspirations.

Intuitions or hunches may be misleading and upset the most cherished desires. Meeting reverses with calmness, may be diverted to much inner solace and as well material benefit. Seek renewment in solitude.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of strange or bewildering adventures and experiences, in which the emotional, spiritual or artistic life are involved. Erratic or rash impulses may precipitate peculiar crises, whereas balanced, calm, and sensible reactions to possible upsets or adversities might be the means of averting danger and trouble. Logic and philosophic analysis of problems should prove more dependable than emotional flares or misguided "hunches."

A child born on this day may have exceptional talents for some unique experiences of material worth, but its emotional or intuitive propensities may need supervision.

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health. —Adv.
